Head-on Crash in Winnebago Takes Lives of Three Men

Victims of Crash Near Winchester Include Frank H. Witt, 49, Neenah

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County now has had more highway accident fatalities during the month of June than it had during the first half of 1965. The latest victims, all who were involved in a head-on collision Thursday night on State 110 near Winchester:

Frank H. Witt, 49, 313 E. Forest Ave., Neenah.
Cyril Eckes, 53, 500 S. Maple Ave., Marshfield.
Al Thomas, 65, 1234 Church St., Stevens Point.

The accident, which claimed three lives, raised the number of highway deaths in Winnebago County during June to nine. Last year, the county had eight highway deaths at this time. So far during 1965 there have been 17. Statewide, the count is now 413, compared to 424 on this date last year.

The Winnebago County accident occurred at about 9:25 p.m. Three miles west of Winchester. County police reported Witt was driving east on State 110 when his car apparently skidded off the pavement onto the south shoulder of the road, and then came back across the highway and collided with the left front of the westbound vehicle which was driven by Eckes.

Both cars were completely demolished.

More Newsprint Produced in 5 Months Than Ever Before

NEW YORK (AP) — North America produced more newsprint than ever before in the first five months this year, the Newsprint Service Bureau says. The total was 4,485,355 tons, up 11.1 per cent from 1965. U.S. mills accounted for a record 3,617,227 tons, up 5.5 per cent. Canadian production rose 12.7 per cent, to 3,503,628 tons.

Knowles announced several days later the total would be only $28.7 million. In the intervening span, a legislative analyst said about $35 million extra would be in the state coffers at the end of the biennium.

King-Sized Controversy In New York

Faisal Loses Official Standing As City Visitor

NEW YORK (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, stripped of his standing as an official city visitor, begins his visit to New York today as the guest of the United Nations and several private groups.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, under public and political pressure, canceled a planned welcoming dinner for Faisal Thursday night. By order of the mayor, no city official was on hand to greet Faisal when the king arrived at La Guardia Airport from Washington.

Lindsay said Faisal's remark in Washington about Jews "has made it impossible for me, as mayor of New York City, to extend the official welcome of the city."

Faisal had been asked at a Washington luncheon about an Arab boycott of U.S. business firms trading with Israel. "Unfortunately Jews support Israel and we consider those who provide assistance to our enemies as our own enemies," the king replied.

Lindsay commented: "The remark is extremely offensive, not just to Jews, but to all the citizens of New York."

New York has about 2 million Jews.

Faisal attends a luncheon at the United Nations today as guest of the world organization. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg also plans to attend the luncheon barring "an unforeseen event," said a spokesman for the U.S. delegation.

Tonight, the Arab monarch is scheduled to be the guest of the Arabian American Oil Co. at a dinner at the Waldorf Astoria, where he is staying. Other receptions by private organizations are scheduled through Wednesday.

King's Son Hurt In Auto Accident

LONDON (AP) — Prince Abdullah Faisal, a son of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, was rushed by helicopter to a London hospital Thursday night after being injured in a car collision which killed two people.

Democrat Leader Mike Mansfield told newsmen he hoped the legislation could be passed by tonight. The Senate was scheduled to begin debate two hours early.

If not approved today, Mansfield said, it should be cleared and sent to the House early next week.

Strong support for auto safety legislation has built up in Congress in the light of steadily mounting highway death and injury totals. There is little question that the legislators will act in this field before the 1966 session ends.

Two separate bills now are pending before the Senate, but they may be merged into one before final passage.

Mississippi, Cleveland, Chicago: Sites of Violence As Pompano Tension Eases

Mississippi marchers prepared for new "confrontations" today as police waited tensely in Chicago and Cleveland after the racial incidents Thursday night. The incidents at three widely scattered points around the country took over the civil rights spotlight as relative calm prevailed at Pompano Beach, Florida, the scene of rioting earlier in the week.

In Chicago, police were called upon Thursday night to hold back a crowd of white persons threatening a group of Negroes playing baseball. A young Negro boy was shot and wounded and a white woman was injured by a thrown brick in Cleveland as violence erupted in an East Side neighborhood for the second consecutive night.

CANTON, Miss. (AP) — Frazzled by a hectic night of tear gas and tension, the Mississippi march regroups today for new "confrontations." Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said a detachment would drive 60 miles east to Philadelphia, Miss., a Ku Klux Klan stronghold, for a rally.

"We will maintain the peace come hell or high water," said Gov. Paul Johnson, in urging Philadelphia residents to stay away from the rally, part of the march's effort to spur Negro voter registration.

The busy schedule also called for organization of Negro boycott of downtown white merchants and a general work stoppage by Negroes in Canton, while a few continue the march toward Jackson.

Meredith Recovered — From Canton, the march swings south along U.S. 51, the decision for full-year financing same highway where it all was "arbitrary" and "should be started by James H. Meredith not be construed as a prediction in Memphis, Tenn., 20 days and as to when the war will end."

Recovered from his wounds, Meredith—now a Columbia University law student—planned to rejoin the march today.

Claude Sterrett, traveling with Meredith, said they would leave Memphis by car at 3 p.m. Meredith was carrying the ivory and ebony walking cane given him by an African chieftain — with tape binding the crack caused when he fell on the cane during the shooting.

King, who got a strong dose of tear gas in Thursday night's uproar in Canton, called the highway patrol move to drive the money in the pending bill might not be enough, the committee noted, and several billion dollars more may be needed if combat operations continue at a high level.

A Republican minority report, agreeing that the huge appropriation won't be enough, called for creation of a "blue ribbon commission" to make an independent and objective evaluation of the projected defense posture of this country.

"What could be more penny-wise and pound-foolish than to

Dodd Presents His Witnesses

Investigation Takes New Turn Today for Connecticut Senator

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee's investigation of misconduct charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd takes a new turn today. The Connecticut Democrat gets a chance to present his own witnesses.

John F. Sonnett, Dodd's lawyer, declined to disclose in advance who the witnesses would be — other than Dodd.

A former assistant attorney general, Sonnett said he plans to call five witnesses, with Dodd probably being put on the stand last. Whether Dodd testifies before the day is over depends on how long cross-examination of the other witnesses takes, he said.

The six-member bipartisan committee permitted Sonnett to present two witnesses Thursday following testimony by Dodd's former secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Carpenter. She testified that the two, David Martin and Gerald Zeiller, had speculated Dodd must have been paid at least $10,000 by Julius Klein for a trip to West Germany in 1964.

Knowles Says He Will Sign Highway Bill

MADISON (AP) — In an effort to "emphasize the importance of continuing the state's efforts to upgrade and improve Wisconsin's highway system," Gov. Warren P. Knowles said he would sign the accelerated highway construction bill Monday where the present Interstate 94 ends near Eau Claire.

Knowles said the Eau Claire Chamber of Commerce asked him to sign the proposal at the site four miles west of Eau Claire.

The bill provides for bonding to complete the interstate system from Tomah to La Crosse and for the interstate bridge at Hudson. But the bonds will not be issued until after May 1, 1967.

An increase from six to seven cents a gallon in the gasoline tax, also included in the measure, is expected to net about $15 million annually to speed construction on priority state trunk projects.

Spring Session

Water Pollution, Highway Bill Top Issues for Wisconsin Legislature

MADISON (AP) — Polluted waters and highway acceleration overshadowed other issues in the Wisconsin Legislature's six week spring meeting, but the question of annual sessions persistently popped up.

The multi-number sessions every biennium, the fiscal uncertainties of two-year budgets and mounting pressure for higher legislative salaries focused attention on the prospect of annual sessions.

The last eight years of politically-divided government in Wisconsin evoked a lot of talk about annual meetings, and now the change appears likely.

"Any candidate running for the Legislature this fall had better come here counting on serving in annual sessions," predicts Assembly Speaker Robert Huber, D-West Allis.

Expected Referendum — That means he expects a constitutional referendum sponsored by Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, and passed once by both houses, to win public approval next April. The measure would allow annual sessions with no limit on length or subject matter.

The State Constitution now requires the Legislature to meet "once in two years, and no oftener." Despite this the extended spring session was the third meeting of the 1965 Legislature in this biennium.

The initial meeting lasted seven months, the second about 30 days. The constitutional requirement is circumvented by recessing after each meeting, instead of the customary adjournment sine die.

In effect, Wisconsin already has annual sessions.

The fiscal difficulties of appro-riating funds and levying taxes for a budget approaching $1 billion over a two-year period has numerous opportunities for political sniping and general inaccuracy.

"I can't see for the life of me how legislators meeting in the odd numbered years can project accurately the revenue coming in and the expenditures going out," said Assembly Minority Leader Paul Afionis, R-Minocqua.

Revenue surplus "guestimates" typify the political games now played by both parties.

During the spring session, Democrats forecast from $40 million to $71 million would be available for additional spending.

Senate Auto Safety Debate Gets Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today auto safety legislation designed to reduce highway death and accident tolls and encourage the development of more effective auto safety programs.

Women in the Week's News Go Full Circle

A Viet Nam woman wept hysterically over the Buddhist monks as the monks left a pagoda in an effort to be arrested or jailed in protest against the military government of Premier Nguyen Can Ky. In another part of Viet Nam at night, a bright-eyed Montagnard girl from a mountain village carries her sleeping sister on a back sling as she waits to be treated by medics of a U.S. Special Forces team.

It was a world of marked contrast in this week's news of women. From the sorrows in and over Viet Nam to silly ways of beating the heat, women were living their lives in the settings in which fate has placed them and in situations they sometimes seek but more often cannot escape.

Top Player Tosses Away Cold Game

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Pietro Forquet was the great star of the world championship Italian bridge team his first partner was dropped from the team for bad play. Today there is talk of dropping Forquet for the way he played in the recent world championship.

An audience of 500 bridge fans watched Forquet massacre this hand in the last session of the match with North America. Forquet drew four rounds of trumps, discarding a heart from dummy, and led the king of diamonds to force out the ace.

Back came a heart, Forquet played low, and Lew Mathe, of the American team, won with the queen. Mathe knew that declarer had all of the missing high cards for his forcing opening bid of one club, so it was pointless to return a club.

After deep thought, Mathe returned a diamond in the hope that somehow Forquet would find a way to go down. And somehow Forquet did.

Fatal Discard
Declarer safely discarded a club from dummy on the diamond return, and now could assure the contract by leading out the ace of hearts and giving up a heart to the king. He could get to dummy with the ace of clubs to discard a club on the established jack of hearts.

Instead, Forquet cashed his last diamond and discarded a second heart from dummy. Five hundred fans gasped as he made this play. We couldn't believe that one of the world's greatest experts had made such a blunder.

Forquet could still make his contract by leading out his hearts, for Mathe would have to win and lead a club from the king. Instead, however, Forquet led clubs himself and had to lose a club and a heart.

Italy won the world championship but may have lost a world champion.

Girl Wants to Recover Nude Photos Made for 'Oil Painting'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 19 years old — old enough to know better, but I didn't. I was in love with an older man (32 to be exact) and I did some very foolish things. Rex told me I had the most fantastic figure he had ever seen and he wanted to do an oil painting of me — in the nude. It was necessary to take some snapshots so he could work from them between sittings, he said. I agreed, although I had never seen a canvas he had become painting and there was no sign of a paint brush or an easel in his apartment. Last week, Rex took the snapshots. When he showed them to me yesterday, I got sick to my stomach. I must have been insane. This whole picture thing has made me realize how unbelievably stupid I was to believe a word he had said. I told Rex I had changed my mind about sitting for the painting and I asked for the snapshots. He refused to give them to me. I want to stop seeing him but I'm afraid of what he might do if I try to end the relationship. He really has the goods on me and I am at his mercy. Please help. — Body Beautiful

Dear Body Beautiful: I don't know about your body, but your brain belongs in Harvard — in a bottle. Stop seeing this man at once. If he makes any attempt to blackmail you, see a lawyer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend who is supposed to be well-bred has a habit that is never seen a canvas he had become painting and there was no sign of a paint brush or an easel in his apartment. Last week, Rex took the snapshots. When he showed them to me yesterday, I got sick to my stomach. I must have been insane. This whole picture thing has made me realize how unbelievably stupid I was to believe a word he had said. I told Rex I had changed my mind about sitting for the painting and I asked for the snapshots. He refused to give them to me. I want to stop seeing him but I'm afraid of what he might do if I try to end the relationship. He really has the goods on me and I am at his mercy. Please help. — Body Beautiful

My name is uncommon but it is not difficult to pronounce. This friend who knows very well what my name is, changes it slightly and thinks she is being very amusing. Here is an example of what she does: Say my name is Mrs. Greenly; she calls me Mrs. Greenriver or Mrs. Greengrass or Mrs. Greenhorn. Up until now I have managed a good-natured smile, but I'm getting fed up. Should I rise above her bad manners and ignore them? Or should I let her know how I feel? — Vancouver

Dear Vancouver: Your friend (?) is guilty of atrocious bad taste and you ought to stop smiling good-naturedly at her crude attempts to be funny — at your expense. The next time she makes a joke of your name, tell her the humor is wearing mighty thin and if she cannot remember your name you will be happy to tell her what it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother died a few years ago and my dad has taken out some nice women, which is fine with me. I know he is lonesome and I can understand his need for female companionship. A few months ago he started to see a tramp. I didn't say anything because I figured it was his business. But last Friday he brought this tramp to our house with an overnight case — for the weekend. I was very hurt that my father would cheapen our house like that. I am 16 years old (a boy) and wonder if I have the right to say something to him. — Anonymous

Dear A.: You do, and you should. And if your father suggests you are out of line, ask him to write to me, please.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1966)

Union Pickets Road Project At Bear Creek

Operating Engineers Protesting Use of Non-Union Workers

Members of Operating Engineers Local 139 are picketing the State 47 construction project in Black Creek where employees of the Wieseler Construction Co. Appleton are working, according to an Appleton business representative of Local 139.

Donald Shaw of Local 139 said this morning two pickets were stationed at the job construction site protesting the use of non-union labor by the construction firm.

Earlier in the week, Local 139 picketed several street projects in Appleton and Menasha where the Wieseler firm had workers.

Transferred From Sites

Shaw said the pickets were transferred from Appleton and Menasha street projects and a U.S. 10 and State 114 job to the Black Creek site because construction firm employees were no longer at the other locations.

Warren Wieseler, head of the construction firm, could not be reached for comment.

The union spokesman said he had received a call from a Black Creek resident telling him there was a possibility of trouble at the Black Creek site. The caller told Shaw some of the residents were upset by the presence of the pickets.

A telephone check with several residents indicated everything was quiet at the construction site.

An employee at an auto firm near the construction site said company employees had noticed a picket standing at the construction site.

She said they had learned the picket had been there all morning. The woman added that work seemed to be progressing without any disturbances.

Shaw said he would visit the construction site to check the situation. He added that the pickets definitely will stay there and we will take whatever measure are necessary to keep them there.

Mrs. Shekowsky charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

Workshop at Wautoma

Educator Says Youth Must Help Preserve Soil, Water

Leadership in conservation will be ineffective unless we have intelligent followers, and camps today have an obligation to instill in our children an appreciation of their surroundings and imbue in them an ethical responsibility, according to R. Jacob Shapiro, biology professor at Wisconsin State University Oshkosh.

Shapiro was anchor man for the panel discussion on land use in a workshop Thursday at Peck's Plantation in Wautoma. The workshop was sponsored by the recreational management subcommittee of the forestry advisory committee of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Keynote speaker was I. O. Hembre, executive secretary of the State Soil and Conservation Committee, Madison, and soil professor at the University of Wisconsin.

Regional Approach

He commended the regional approach to problems such as land use and recommended orientation for youth and teachers alike in becoming aware of the problems and working with all agencies.

Hembre said that all persons are charged with the stewardship of our natural resources

Law Enforcement Revamp's Second Phase Wins Approval

Outagamie Committee Hears Plan Setting Lower Echelon Duties

The second phase of Outagamie County law enforcement reorganization was met with morning approval this morning by the county board's law enforcement committee.

The initial phase of the sweeping program involving leadership positions was approved by the committee June 16.

At that time approval was given for two lieutenants, one for traffic and the other for the investigation staff, to serve under the sheriff and undersheriff.

All county law enforcement activities will be under supervision of the sheriff if the committee's proposal wins county board approval July 12.

Present Second Phase

Sheriff Calvin Spice and Sgt. Lowell Veitch, acting head of the county traffic patrol, presented the second phase of the proposal this morning. They were told by the committee last week to use their own discretion in formulating reorganization involving all but the top four spots on the law enforcement schedule.

The lieutenant investigator would supervise the investigation staff and police radio operators, while the lieutenant in traffic would supervise sergeants and patrolmen.

Spice and Veitch proposed three regular sergeants and one floating sergeant for the traffic department. There would be no sergeants in the investigation bureau.

Three work shifts are proposed for board action. Patrol assignments would be designed to fit in with daily traffic patterns.

Fill New Post

The only additional manpower needed under the proposal would be a person to fill the new post of court officer and fleet dispatcher. His duties would be to see that squad cars were properly maintained and to appear with offenders in court on designated days.

Meet With Committee

The law enforcement committee will meet early next month with the executive committee before the reorganization plan goes to the board.

Meanwhile, representatives of the J. J. Jacobs Co., author of the county's job plan, will review the proposal for the purpose of recommending new pay scales, job classifications and job qualifications.

The consolidation plan is expected to be put into effect immediately if the county board approves it next month.

Appleton Woman Granted Divorce

Sharon Adams, 24, 138 W. Prospect St., was divorced from Leonard Adams, 23, whose address was not given in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

She charged cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married Feb. 2, 1961 and had one child. Adams is to pay $50 a week support.

Attempts Have Failed

Several attempts in past months to push a consolidation—chief deputy plan through the county board have failed.

As far as I'm concerned, I'm still not in favor of consolidating the two departments," Veitch said again today. But he added, "I like Cal (Spice). I don't feel our plan should be hacked apart on the board floor and we wind up with the small pieces."

Several suggested rules were incorporated in the proposal accepted from Veitch and Spice. If adopted by the board, the rules will include no departmental changes concerning organization and personnel being made without enforcement committee and county board approval. The job classification and salary proposals must be set before the reorganization plan is passed and that all promotions be made in accordance with Civil Service ordinances.

Meet With Committee

The law enforcement committee will meet early next month with the executive committee before the reorganization plan goes to the board.

Meanwhile, representatives of the J. J. Jacobs Co., author of the county's job plan, will review the proposal for the

Extradition Proceedings

Extradition proceedings were postponed until this afternoon for Frank Moriello, 33, Chicago, when he appeared Thursday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Moriello sought by Illinois and federal authorities on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for allegedly conspiring to solicit for prostitution indicated Thursday that he desires to waive extradition and be returned to Illinois.

However, Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer pointed out that certified copies of complaints and warrants for Moriello will be received here tomorrow, and he suggested that proceedings be delayed a day. His motion was granted by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Judge Dismisses Count Of Permitting Minor To Loiter In Kimberly Bar

A charge against Mrs. Margaret Michalkiewicz of allowing a minor to enter a tavern was dismissed Thursday afternoon by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Mrs. Michalkiewicz, 36, 119 S. Railroad St., Kimberly, on April 8 pleaded innocent of permitting a 17-year-old youth to enter White's Bar, which she helps operate.

She was charged following investigation by Kimberly police.

In finding the woman innocent, Judge Keller said the state did not meet its burden of proof in the case. The trial was held in County Court Branch 2.

Public May Not Have Access to Questionnaires

LaFollette Rules On Legislators' Salaries Survey

MADISON (AP) — Proposed questionnaires on legislative salaries to be filled out by the lawmakers themselves will be public records but the public may not necessarily have access to them.

Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette said today he had told Carl Wettengel, director of the Bureau of Personnel, that the decision to allow public inspection of the questionnaires will be up to Wettengel.

The question of whether the documents will be open or not depends in part on the form of the questionnaire. LaFollette said. He said it is anonymous. He sees no reason why it shouldn't be made public.

Kellett Proposal

An advisory committee headed by William Kellett of Menasha given the task of recommending salary levels for legislators has proposed sending the questionnaires to lawmakers.

LaFollette said the committee was more likely to get accurate information if anonymity was promised. But he added if legislators were required to sign their names, then the release of the documents would be subject to Wettengel's discretion.

The attorney general cited a recent State Supreme Court decision involving the Waukesha Freeman in which it was ruled the right to inspect public documents was not absolute.

Kellett Unit Calls for 13 Departments

BY DAVE NOWAK Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A preliminary blueprint for a modified commission form of state government that has legislative sex appeal was drawn up Thursday afternoon by a subcommittee of the temporary Reorganization Committee on State Government.

The proposal, which calls for 13 state administrative departments, was the result of an intensive two-day session at Biggar's Motel, Appleton.

The full committee, created by the Legislature to prepare a blueprint for the reorganization of the administrative and legislative branches of state government, is composed of legislators, citizens and state administrative personnel. William R. Kellert, retired president of Kimberly-Clark Corp., is chairman.

Further Study

After further study by the state Department of Administration, the proposal will be submitted to the full committee at a two-day session at Madison in mid July.

Under the subcommittee's proposal, there would be six departments run by a single commissioner and three commissions headed by three men, one of whom would be designated chairman. These nine departments or commissions would be separate from the governor's office.

Agencies which would be a part of the governor's office are the Department of Public Instruction, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the Investment Board and the adjutant general's office.

All other state agencies and boards would be grouped according to function.

Appleton Reserve Unit Fixes Roads at McCoy

An Appleton Army Reserve unit, Co. C of the 291st Combat Engineer Battalion, will return home Saturday after completing a series of construction projects during two weeks of training at Camp McCoy.

Capt. Harry J. Spiegelberg, 135 N. Nicholas St., Appleton, the company commander, said the unit has had a troop support mission at Camp McCoy this year, foregoing tactical operations to perform engineering construction maintenance and post improvement projects.

The Appleton reserve unit had a total of 85 Appleton area men and attached personnel at the camp.

Recruit Training

Another 37 men recently enlisted recruits whose entry into active duty for basic training has been delayed by the buildup of the active Army, will attend a special two-week recruit camp at Camp McCoy starting in late July.

Among duties performed by the Appleton unit this year were repairs and road construction at the camp's airfield, improvement of post boundaries, lanes, construction of fences and parking areas in the post's cantonment area and maintenance of training sites and buildings.

Built Road

Capt. Spiegelberg said the unit also has operated a mess hall and vehicle maintenance facilities and performed administrative and supply duties.

Other crews from the Wisconsin reserve battalion, which also has units in Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Beaver Dam and Racine, have operated a quarry and shale pit, constructed road drainage facilities, done grading and maintenance work on the 175 miles of roads on the post and improved the post ammunition dump.

Driving Range Will Go into Operation

Golf Village Will Include Elevated Green, Water Hazard

MENASHA — A golf driving range, complete with elevated greens and an eight-foot deep water hazard, and an 18-hole miniature golf course will go into operation at Golf Village near U.S. 41 in the Town of Menasha at 11 a.m. Sunday.

The driving range and putting course are part of a complete operation for golfers, which by mid-August also will include a nine-hole lighted golf course over 40 acres at the site on N. Lake Street. The hexagonal-shaped building at the entrance, which will house a pro-shop and concession stands, will open when the 1,500-yard course is inaugurated later this summer.

The miniature putting course and the driving range with 25 concrete tees will be open from 9 a.m. to midnight at the start, but may operate around the clock when the other facilities are ready sometime in August.

Some 2,000 golf balls have already arrived at the driving range and that number is expected to double in the next month.

The three elevated greens are at distances of 100, 150 and 200 yards. Golfers will have to drive over a pond about 350 feet long to reach the greens. A submerged nylon net across the lake will facilitate the recovery of errant shots by duffers.

The entire project is being developed by Neenah realtor E. G. Rehbein.

Bridge Won't Be Included In Port Funds

OSHKOSH — A fight by Supv. Roland Kampe of Town of Menasha to amend a county board resolution calling for a special meeting next Thursday to act on bonding for county airport expansion failed yesterday.

The board voted 3-6 to meet at 1:30 p.m. next Thursday to act on the initial resolution for a bond issue which is expected to exceed $900,000 for construction of a new north-south runway and for an asphalt overlay on the existing east-west runway. Federal grant papers must also be acted upon at that time.

Midnight Thursday is the deadline for action for the county to be eligible for federal aid this year.

Kampe sought to amend the resolution to include bonding for a bridge over Little Lake Butte des Morts to connect the east and west portions of the Town of Menasha. A bridge has been sought for more than 20 years but without success.

The board also voted to amend the resolution to include bonding for a bridge over Little Lake Butte des Morts to connect the east and west portions of the Town of Menasha. A bridge has been sought for more than 20 years but without success.

He has served as comptroller since September 1964.

This Summer in Neenah Mailman Isn't a Male

NEENAH — In fine postal tradition, the mailman always gets through. This summer, though, it may be different in Neenah. It will be the mailwoman instead.

Judy Quella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Quella, 621 W. Lawrence St., Appleton, has been hired by the Post Office as the first female mailman. She begins route duty today.

Slim, dark-haired Judy admits she didn't know they'd have her delivering mail, but adds she thinks it'll be "lots of fun."

"It'll be the most different summer job I've ever had and I'm really looking forward to it," the Marquette University sophomore says.

Along with several hundred other students Judy took the seasonal Civil Service test last spring. A month later she received a letter saying she was eligible for the postal job. Soon after that she was offered work by the Neenah, the Menasha and the Appleton post offices.

"I took the Neenah job because the hours were better," the novice mailman admits. "I've been working about 30 hours a week."

Sorted Mail Monday through Friday Judy sorted letters, cancelled bundles and labeled and carted parcel post packages. She's near expert on where what postage goes, the correct way to stack mail and what letters go in the carriers' bags and which go in the substation boxes. Judy says the postal employees have been most helpful during her week's learning session and that while they like to tease, they're always there when she's had a question.

Tuesday Judy accompanied a route man on his deliveries. "The looks I got were unbelievable," she says. "Housewives came to their doors and asked what was going on. Little kids giggled and pointed. No one knew quite why I was there because I wasn't wearing a uniform besides the fact I was a girl!"

The seasonal workers do not wear uniforms so Judy will not have one. "I think a girl should look like a girl regardless of what she's doing though. I'll wear culottes or a skirt when I'm on my route," she said.

The typical picture of the mailman with dog at his heels doesn't frighten this female charmer. She thinks her can of spray will be protection enough. "If a dog were to chase me, I'd be the first to run the other way, though."

One of six children, Judy can't recall any of her brothers or sisters having had such an unusual summer job. They all had really interesting ones, but they were all suited to their sex," she admits. "Dad is getting quite a chuckle out of it all, but both he and mom are glad I've got an opportunity for such a good job."

Tuesday Judy celebrated a birthday. Among her gifts was a mail mailbox charm.

"We'll no doubt have lots of laughs over this," Judy says.

Realtor Board Assails Housing Rights Measure

NEENAH - MENASHA — The Neenah-Menasha Board of Realtors has notified Wisconsin's senators and Sixth Dist. Rep. John Racc of the board's opposition to pending federal legislation against discrimination in housing.

The board calls Title IV of the civil rights bill requested by President Johnson a "proposal that would strip from home and property owners their traditional right to choose to whom they may sell or rent," and urges the three lawmakers, all Democrats, to "exert every effort" to defeat the measure.

"While the objective of open occupancy is praiseworthy, this proposed means of accomplishing it is 100 per cent wrong, since true and lasting acceptance of neighbors by neighbors can be accomplished only by understanding and education fostered voluntarily by churches, schools and all men of good will," the statement continues.

He and his wife reside in New York City. They have one son, John Arden, 23, now serving as an ensign in the U.S. Navy.

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago of the criteria set down by the County Board gave its nod to a State Board of Vocational and county-wide vocational district Adult Education.

The criteria for the new vocational school districts, required by state law to be established by 1970, were eased by a 44-1 vote with only Supv. George Hunter (Omro-Utica) casting a ballot in opposition.

The resolution, which passed by a 44-1 vote with only Supv. George Hunter (Omro-Utica) casting a ballot in opposition, left the doors open to the inclusion of the Twin Cities in the Oshkosh-based district even though both Neenah and Menasha vocational school districts indicated they were not interested in the invitation from the Oshkosh Vocational and Adult School a week ago.

William Sirek, director of the Oshkosh Technical Institute, had proposed the inclusion of the two schools in the northern end of the county to create a district which would meet or exceed all consin.

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday appointed LeRoy Luberg of Madison to the State Merit Awards Board.

Luberg, now chairman of the board, is Dean for Public Service of the University of Wisconsin which would meet or exceed all consin.

No decision has been made on the questionnaire's content. The Kellogg group has set an Aug. 15 deadline for making its recommendations.

Public hearings will then be conducted by the Bureau of Personnel and then it will submit a recommendation to be acted on by the Board of Government Operations. Approval by the board would complete the procedure for the raise.

Legislators now are paid $5,400 a year. An attempt during the spring session to raise the level to $9,600 for members and $12,050 for leaders was lost when Gov. Warren P. Knowles vetoed the amount. But Knowles left the way open for the present study and probable raise.

Attending the Thursday session were Assemblymen David Martin, Veenah and Thomas Barland, Fau Claire, State Sen. Robert Warren, Green Bay, all Republicans. Abbot, Byfield, public affairs director, Kimberly Clark Corp., Paul Brown and Kaiser, Department of Administration, and Kellogg.

Appleton-Based Airline Would Provide Four Daily Passenger Flights to Chicago

Special to The Post-Crescent

SHEBOYGAN—Air service is likely to begin in this city beginning in October as a result of a recommendation made here Thursday by the Sheboygan County Board's airport committee.

The first of the two new turbojet Twin Otters is expected to arrive early in September. Another one is scheduled for delivery in March, 1967.

Melton, Jones Pace Foxes to 5-4 Win

Champions Extend Skein To 6 Games

DECATUR Ill. - Husky Bill Melton delivered his third home run in three days, and veteran Deacon Jones rapped out four hits in five trips to lead the Fox Cities Foxes to a 5-4 Midwest League triumph over Decatur's Commodores here Thursday night.

With the ML's first round pennant already in the bag, the Foxes move over to Quincy for a 3-game series, beginning with a doubleheader tonight. Fox Cities will return to Goodland Field Sunday, facing first round runnerup Burlington at 8 p.m.

Thursday's triumph was the Foxes' sixth in succession tying the club's longest win chain of the season. It was also their third consecutive 1-run victory.

The Foxes wasted little time last night striking for three runs in the first inning.

Jones Doubles
Jim Maness singled to left field with one out and advanced to second when losing pitcher Gene Reilly attempted to pick him off first. Jones slammed a double down the left field line, scoring Maness, and Melton uncocked a 355-foot shot over the left-center field fence for his seventh homer of the season.

Decatur closed the gap to 3-2 with single runs in the first two frames. Gary Bowman survived on an error and Al Deravin slapped a double to left. Jim McKenzie singled in Bowman in the first.

After Stan Little was safe on a fielder's choice, singles by Noel Finley and Don Blanton pushed across the Commodores' second run.

The Foxes added a marker in the third when Al Kristowski was safe on an error. Jones singled and Melton lofted a sacrifice fly to center field for his third run batted in of the game.

The Commodores knotted the count in the bottom of the third.

Mays Slams 521st Career Homer to Tie Ted Williams

Giants Complete Sweep of Cub Series; Reds Win Sixth in Row

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP) - Back in Willie Mays' mind there is something he has to live with but won't admit.

It's breaking the all-time home run record of 714 by Babe Ruth.

Landmarks are falling before wondrous Wally of the National League leading San Francisco Giants. As his team swept a four game series from the Chicago Cubs with a 6-4 victory Thursday and moved on to Cincinnati Friday night, Mays had matched Ted Williams' homer production of 52 third on the all-time list.

Jimmy Fox is second with 534 and it's taken for granted that Willie will catch this one before too long and become the doing that you don't break greatest right handed home run production man in major league history.

Mays smashed his 521st in a 13-year career with the Giants and 16th for the season in the first inning Thursday and collected two singles afterward for his first three hit game since the seventh game of the season.

Talks of Babe's Mark
But somehow in the Giants dressing room afterwards, Willie wasn't impressed. He didn't even talk about surpassing Fox but did dwell on Ruth's great record.

"I'm 35 years old now and I don't think I'll ever beat out Ruth or even come close to him," he said. "I don't feel any pressure in beating Fox, mark. But for Ruth I would have to average 75 to 80 homers every season for at least four or five more years, and that's asking a lot when you don't know if you will be playing regularly. The older you get the fewer homers you will hit.

I really felt the pressure this spring when guys came around and asked me when I would homer to beat Mel Ott's mark. Now I don't think of it anymore. There's no pressure anymore. The homer I hit Thursday was just another home run as far as I'm concerned.

The only records I know about is what I read in the papers. But I'll admit you do think of them a little after you read about it.

I don't even know what pitch I hit for my 521st (there were two men aboard and it was a 2-1 pitch off Dick Ellsworth). As for records, I just don't try to analyze them. When you start doing that you don't break them. There are so many I don't know what they mean any more. I don't set any goals.

Elsewhere Cincinnati won its sixth straight beating Pittsburgh 4-1.

Tommy Bolt Takes Lead in Western Open

Clips 3 Strokes Off Par; Casper Tied for Second

By FERRY LISK
CHICAGO (AP) - Tommy Bolt, now a humorous rather than a furious golfer, has upstaged the Billy Casper Arnold Palmer Vendetta in the $100,000 Western Open which moved into its second round at the tough Medinah course today.

Bolt, once the ferriest Tom, my with a club-breaking temper, uncorked a three under par 68 Thursday for a one stroke lead over a runner-up trio including Casper, the new U.S. open champion, and a four stroke margin over Palmer.

Casper, saying, "Now that I'm the National Open champion I've got something to live up to," began his Western Open title defense with a 69. That was matched by Harold (Catfish) Kneere and Doug Sanders.

Palmer, admitting I'm still playing from last week, trailed in a 12-player tie for 18th place with a one over par 72.

His remark referred to his collapse in the National Open at San Francisco when he twice was blitzed by Casper in Sunday's final round and Monday's playoff.

Bolt, 48, an infrequent circuit practitioner because of bursts in his shoulder, enjoyed the spot.

Colavito Hits Fourth Homer in 24-Hour Span as Tribe Wins

Brooks Robinson Paces Orioles To 5-2 Victory Over Yankees

It's time to stop throwing not the real free swinger I used to be. I try to be more consistent now.

For Rocky Colavito, plagued by people who have asked him what's happened to his home run touch, has supplied the answer to his detractors by hammering four homers in a 24-hour period that ended Thursday when he led Cleveland to an 8-6 victory over Boston.

Only last week the 32-year-old Indians slugger was discussing his pet peeve, the people looking for his home run touch. But the slugger hadn't lost it — just misplaced it.

Whenver I'm not going good someone asks me if I've lost my home run touch. Colavito said. They want to know every time you have a bad day. Now that I've been around while they say it even more often.

Have I lost my home run touch? Colavito asked rhetorically. No.

Hits 26 Homers

Why then was Colavito having such a hard time finding the home run touch following a 1965 season in which he hit only 26 homers?

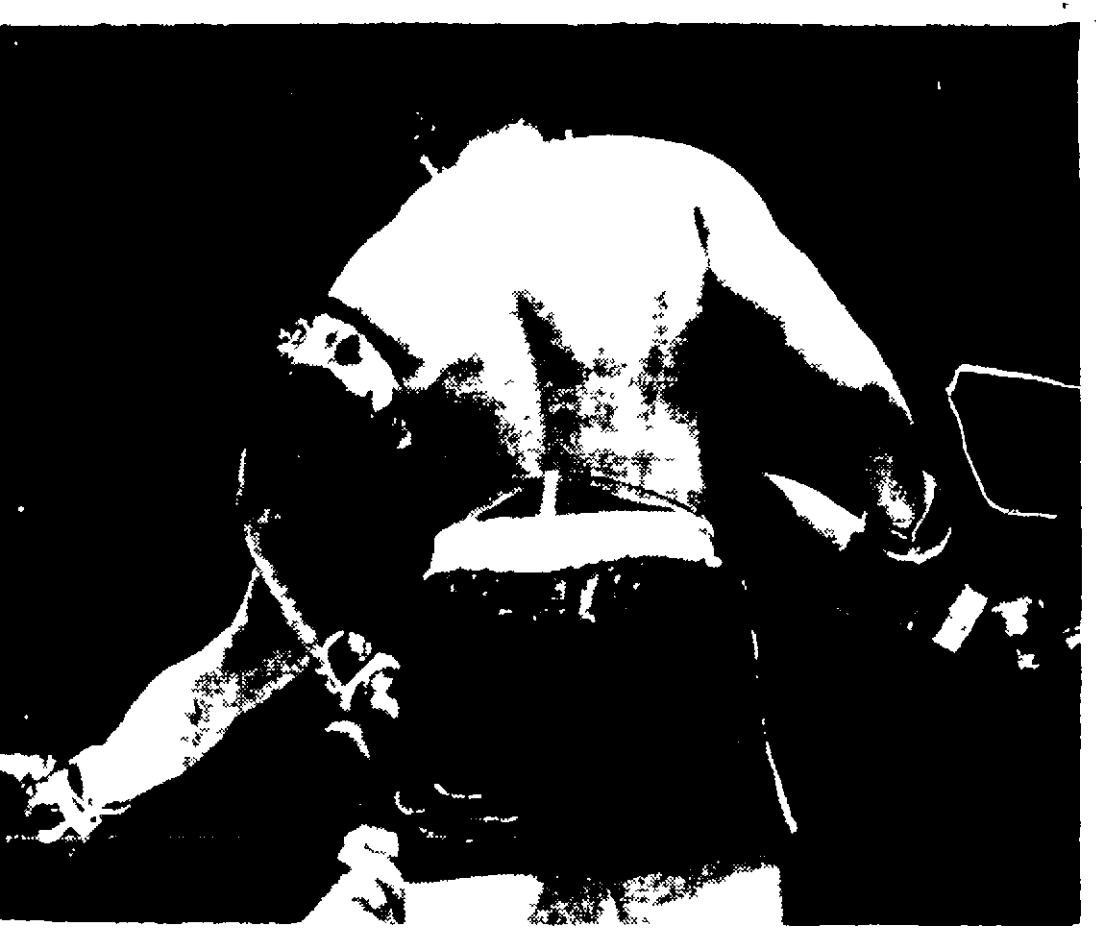

Nobody's the same as he was a couple of years ago, said Colavito, who has hit more than 40 homers three times in his 12 year major league career. I'm not the same as I was when I was 26.

Colavito's homer his 11th of the season broke a 11 tie in the third inning and the Indians never were headed. Fred Whitfield, Jim Landis and Chico Salas also homered for Cleveland.

The Tigers picked up Mike McCormick for three first inning runs on walks to Dick McAuliffe and Norm Cash. Al Kaline's two run double and a single by Willie Horton.

Earl Wilson posted his first victory as a tiger allowing only four hits before he was relieved by Larry Sherry in the eighth. The Senators run came on.

Fans Chided For Booping Harrelson

Lopat Says A's Were Patient With Infielder

KANSAS CITY (AP) - A Kansas City Athletics official said Thursday the fans will have to take some of the blame for the release of infielder Ken Harrelson on waivers.

The 24-year old first baseman, who has been having some trouble hitting, was picked up by the Washington Senators for $20,000.

Ed Lopat, A's executive vice president, said the fans had been booing in lead of encouragement Harrelson.

They've booped the far out of him and I know it had some effect on him," he said. "No one likes to be booped. It's disheartening to come home from a road trip and know you're going to start getting it again."

Lopat said he felt we went a long way with Ken and were very patient with him.

He hit only 159 through the last 45 or 50 games last season and this year he has taken right up where he left off," he added.

Houston Wins Ninth NCAA Golf Crown

ARD Softball League Results

Hale Irwin, of Colorado, Setting Individual Pace

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Houston has its ninth NCAA team golf championship in the last 11 years and two of its stars — Marty Fleckman and Hal Underwood — are taking aim on the individual title.

Blocking their way, however, is the imposing figure of Hale Irwin, Colorado's football player-turned-back and the individual lead, going into today's third round.

Irwin, a solid 185-pounder, fired a par 71 over the 6,835-yard Stanford University course Thursday for a 141 and a two-stroke lead.

It also gave him a share of second place with Fleckman. National Amateur Champ Bob Murphy of Florida and Arne Doka of Los Angeles state all at 143.

Following at 144 are Don Ketter and Ron Cerullo of San Jose State, Bob Dickson of Oklahoma State and Mike Huley of San Diego State.

Underwood was in the last threesome to finish Thursday and needed a 75 to clinch it for Houston. He made it with room to spare, giving the Cougars a final team total of 282.

Following in order were San Jose State at 366, Southern Cal 375, Oklahoma State 391, Arizona State 599 and San Diego State 694.

Carl Graves Tops Good-Fellowship League With 37

Foxes Extend Victory Skein

When Stan Little tagged a Jim Magnuson pitch for a double with two mates aboard.

With one out in the eighth, Bob Von Esch came through with a single for his third hit of the game. Von Esch stole second and Reilly tried to pick him off with Deatur shortstop John Buchanan committing an error on Reilly's throw.

Von Esch headed for third and when center fielder Jim Mallon also erred on the play, crossed the plate with the winning run.

Foxes newcomer Jim Magnuson, formerly of Wisconsin State University at Oshkosh, was roughed up a bit in his professional baseball debut, allowing six hits and four runs.

Only three of the runs were earned.

Magnuson fanned three and walked two before yielding the mound duties to reliever Gary Schaefer, who was credited with the victory in the sixth inning.

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Steven Arlin, one of the nation's most promising young pitchers, turned to professional baseball and dentistry Thursday for what is believed to be more than $100,000.

Arlin, a 6-foot, 2-inch, 190-pounder, was voted the most valuable player in the College World Series, finishing in five Triple-A games at the Buckeyes won the NCAA title. He had two complete games and relieved in three others during the tournament, pitching two 12-strikeout victories over Northern California.

General Manager John Quinn came to Arlin's home here to sign the agreement.

Cuban Radio Mysteriously Leaves Out Castro's Name

Premier's Status Under Question During Silence

By THEODORE A. EDIGER
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mention of Fidel Castro has been strangely missing lately in broadcasts over the government-controlled radio in Cuba.

Miami monitors of Havana Radio have not heard the Cuban prime minister mentioned throughout this week. They recalled only sparse mention of him since he was reported inspecting Hurricane Alma's damage June 8.

That contrasts sharply with former daily mention of Castro in newscasts and other reports. It also coincides with wide spread speculation as to Castro's status. Robert McCloskey, U.S. State Department press officer, jangled the conjectures by commenting on Castro's "uncharacteristic silence."

But exiles, often gullible to the numerous rumors about things happening to their enemy No. 1, are mostly wary of this one. They point out that Castro has played hard to find before.

One of the prime minister's most vociferous critics, his sister Juanita, who lives here in self-imposed exile, has remained silent on speculation as to his whereabouts.

Castro, who likes to make speeches, made his last broadcast address on May 1. He called President Johnson "one of the greatest criminals in history." He told his people that Cuba's vital sugar crop would be small.

On June 4, Castro was reportedly seen on television among officials attending a function at which President Osvaldo Dorticos spoke.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, a Miami-based group comprised of Americans, said it had reports from good sources that Castro has been undergoing electric-shock medical treatments. It said the reports, from diplomatic quarters and from the Cuban underground, added that a double has been making appearances for Castro.

Officials Defend Policy

160,000 Students Try for Deferment

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 160,000 students sit down today to pour over Selective Service draft deferment tests across the country.

And in Washington, Selective Service officials defended their policy of deferring college students from the draft.

The tests may be used by local draft boards in considering college deferments for the school year beginning this fall. It is not mandatory that a student seeking a deferment take these tests.

This is the last chance to take the tests in three examination days since May 15, some 330,000 young men have taken them. Science Research Associates, a Chicago educational publishing firm, is conducting the tests for the Selective Service in 1,200 centers across the country.

In the current controversy over the draft, critics have contended that it discriminates against the poor and favors those who can go to college.

One Selective Service spokesman said the cry of preferred treatment for the students was unfounded and unfair.

About 1.8 million young men had 25 student deferments as of June 1, he said.

Another 4.7 million had deferments because of mental, physical or moral reasons, and some 3.5 million more had 3A deferments, some because of extreme hardship, most because they were married and had children.

Lt. Gen. Lewis R. Hershey, Selective Service director, says 55 per cent of those who go to college eventually see military service.

Lower Per Cent

"This compares to 46 per cent of those who don't go to college. I know it's hard to believe, but that's a fact," he told the House Armed Services Committee this week. The committee is conducting hearings on the draft.

"If the nation needs those who are trained, it should be prepared to defer them when the needs of the armed forces permit, and the individual continues to serve the national interest," he said.

The policy has been, he said, to defer "those diligently improving themselves so far as possible, and to look at the essentiality of the skill acquired when it has been put to use."

State CORE Cancels Planned Mississippi Trip

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) announced today that it has decided to cancel a bus trip to Mississippi to participate in the freedom from fear march.

Instead, the group said it is making plans to bus to Madison sometime next week to urge a bill passed by the Legislature to veto with regular teachers and students, operating in a that would give Milwaukee governmental units the right to veto anti-poverty projects.

CORE still plans to hold a sympathy march for the Mississippi marchers this Saturday in Milwaukee.

Low Income

O'Konski said in his district in the past six months no one had been drafted from a family with more than $5,000 income.

"If the draft continues in its present form," he said, "I'm afraid we won't have the poor with us very long."

At Madison, Wis., Col. Bentley Courtenay, state Selective Service director, said he could not comment on O'Konski's statement since neither his office nor local boards have statistics on the worth of registrants or their families.

The Wisconsin Department of Resource said in a recent study that median family income in O'Konski's district, based on 1960 census figures, was $4,677 yearly.

"The question of a boy's worth is not germane to his classification," said Courtenay.

Graduates Off To Start College

Alumni of School For Emotionally Disturbed Do Well

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — A school for pupils from a hospital for the emotionally disturbed is sending more than half its graduates on to college, where they hope to match the records of last year's seniors.

It is the Arlington School, on the grounds of McLean Hospital, a division of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Francis de Marneffe called the school "one of the most successful ventures ever undertaken by the hospital" in his commencement address Thursday.

He is director of the hospital, where the experiment in the education of the emotionally disturbed started five years ago. Since then, 25 of the 75 graduates have gone to college.

All eleven seniors graduated Thursday, and seven of them look forward to college careers. Of the same number who went on last year, six of them posted averages of "C" or better.

Headmaster John F. Dunn believes the school is the only one of its type in the country — a college preparatory course Gov. Warren P. Knowles vetoed last year.

Education Emphasis
Dunn said he has agreed not to disclose the names of the college which have accepted the students.

Communists Guard Against Uninvited

Convention Floor Sessions Not Opened to Press, Public

By HOLLIE WEST
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Communist party is taking no chances on uninvited guests crashing its national convention in a hall on Manhattan's Lower East Side.

Tight security measures include male ushers standing guard at each entrance of the convention hall. They closely eye the convention cards of delegates and observers. Persons not carrying cards are given an about face and told not to return.

"We get enough trouble with the public on the outside, let alone inside here," said one usher.

One usher guards the front door of the hall. Once he is satisfied with a conventioneer's identification, the person then must register at a table inside the lobby. But before entering any meeting room, the person is required to flash his card again.

Other Conventions
The Democratic and Republican parties employ similar strict control over admission to the floor at their national conventions, but also have visitors galleries for those unconnected with the conventions. The Democrats and Republicans do not close floor sessions to the press, as the Communists have done.

Webster Hall, site of the Communist convention, is on East 11th street between Third and Fourth avenues, a slum area that was a settling point for European immigrants early in the century. The area now houses Puerto Rican newcomers.

A table in the hall's lobby is piled with books and pamphlets on communism, which can be bought at a 20 per cent discount.

The conventioners are of all ages. Several young couples brought their children. Most of the persons, however, appear to be in their late 40s or early 50s and were conservatively dressed.

Disagreement Reported
Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu was reliably reported to have disagreed with the attack Chou planned to make on the Soviet Union and to have persuaded him to omit any reference to the crucial issues of the feud.

Communist sources said the Romanian leader threatened to call off the rally unless Chou agreed to refrain from attacking the Soviets. Chou finally gave in and gave a routine speech which omitted mention of Ceausescu and referred to the Romanian people rather than the regime.

Lowers Slightly
Around Noon Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was a little lower early closed steady to weak choice and cost Thursday when she appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

The list showed signs of straightening itself out in the morning and of having recovered from a bad case of jitters in the previous session. This was short lived.

Douglas Aircraft reported a second quarter loss of nearly $3 million and the stock plunged 3 1/2 to 7 on a delayed opening block of 30,000 shares. This followed a loss of 8 1/2 Thursday.

The price damage to Douglas had an unsettling effect on other glamorous issues and a number of them were shaken down rather severely. Some came back wiping out all their loss and edging higher.

The overall list however remained a little lower on half price.

The Associated Press average of 60 stock at noon was off 5 Exchange.

Recovering Cropland Along Rat River

Excess Water Can be as serious a problem as lack of it when a farmer seeks to grow crops to maintain his dairy herd. On the Clarence Mauritz farm in southwestern Outagamie County the problem hit serious proportions, so he consulted with Soil Conservationists for a solution.

This combination of drainage tile, ditches and large capacity pump were harnessed in an attempt to correct the excess moisture.

A portion of the land had to be cleared. Tile laid out in preparation for installing in a ditch forms a long, continuous line. (Story on Page 2.)

Dale Farmer, No 'Mariner,' Battles Rat River to Recover Lost Cropland

Clarence Mauritz, Route 2, Embarks on Major Drainage System for Dairy Farm

BY L. A. DUFFEY
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

DALE F — To the "Green Mariner" the drenching rains of last fall coupled with an overflowing river would have been a welcomed blessing. But to a Dale dairy farmer they were crushing blows. In a running six-year battle with water.

Clarence Mauritz, route 2, decided he had had enough.

Last fall despite the use of three tractors in tandem 29 acres of much needed corn was left stranded. It was a long winter but Mauritz wasted no time in consulting agricultural agencies about his problem.

His project is among those expected to receive final approval when the county ASC committee meets July 15.

He found that cost sharing assistance was available on tiling and ditches. Two recommendations made by the Soil Conservation Service as steps to follow in solving the excess water problem.

Started in Spring

Work started on the project this spring but because of recent rains keeping portions of the farm soggy the project is temporarily delayed until drier conditions prevail.

A dairy farm operation to succeed requires plenty of good farm grown feed for the cattle. But if a farmer must wait until July before his fields are dry enough to work, he is starting at a great disadvantage. This was the problem that snagged Mauritz's line.

As a corrective measure 20,000 feet of tiling was recommended.

A job requiring 10,000 feet is considered big. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Outagamie County handles about a dozen 10,000 foot jobs in a year but a project the size of Mauritz's is considered unusual — especially when the work is done in a single season.

Ring the Farm

A system of drainage tile and deep drainage ditches will ring the perimeter of the 185-acre farm when the job is completed. Dirt removed from the ditches form a dike barrier to the angry river waters that swell in spring.

In addition a sizeable pumping system was devised. Power to run the motor on the pump had to be brought in from a half mile away. A number of trees had to be cleared from portions of the 115-acre cropland area.

The pump has a capacity of 100 gallons per minute and empties into the nearby Rat River on a systematically timed basis. A spokesman for the Outagamie SCS said they average one pumping job every two years.

Mauritz and his son have a 45 cow herd currently and are trying to maintain about 50. The new system when completed will protect their sizeable investment.

Origins in Outagamie

The Rat River, which has its origins in the triangle formed by U. S. 10, State 70 and Outagamie County Trunk M flows southwest into the Lake Poygan watershed in Winnebago County.

On the west side of the

farm the project has become symmed with 10,000 feet of tile yet to be installed. Conditions are too wet to hold up the machines.

A path must be cleared through an eight-acre stand of willows for a dragline to get in and dig the necessary deep ditches in that area. When completed there will be 8,500 feet of ditches.

Unlike the Wolf River which has been getting streambank stabilization treatment for the past couple years, the Rat River has more of a flat flood plain extending from its banks.

When the heavy spring runoff starts the areas adjacent to the stream are always in line for a clabbering.

Three Years

It will take about three years, observers estimate before the full effect of the project is felt on the Mauritz farm.

Meanwhile interest is developing on neighboring farms on the Mauritz project and further steps against the marauding Rat River seem indicated.

Farm projects, although often thorny, are seldom so far reaching in importance. Men who work the land to carve out an existence for themselves seem endowed with a dormant pioneer spirit often shown in their early forefathers.

It frequently remains dormant until the need arises to forge ahead in spite of seemingly insurmountable problems.

Ervin Kohl Farm

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn on the farm of Ervin Kohl, 4321 N. Lyndale Drive in the Town of Grand Chute Thursday evening.

Firemen said the roof of the 40 by 80 foot barn was ablaze when the fire was first noticed about 6 p.m. By the time equipment arrived it was too late to save the structure so efforts were turned to saving surrounding buildings.

Three heifers were in the barn when the fire started, firemen said, but they were driven to safety.

Partially Insured

Louis has not been estimated, authorities said, however the barn was partially covered by insurance. Destroyed along with the barn were five tons of baled straw, a wagon elevator and other machinery.

Firemen answered the call with three trucks which remained at the scene for three hours. A stand-by crew stayed at the site until 6 a.m. today.

During the time of the barn fire the department was called to a grass fire along College Avenue in the town. A truck was dispatched to the site. No damage was reported.

Revision Urged of Child Labor Laws

Stringent Interpretations Bar High School Graduates

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State child labor laws should be thoroughly reviewed, the state Industrial Commission said Thursday, because many high school graduates are finding they cannot legally accept jobs under stringent interpretations of prohibitions placed on work available to youth.

The study will be made by a special study committee yet to be named by the state agency.

Commissioner Gene Rowland told the group that many occupations covered by state child labor laws no longer exist in the circumstances present when the laws were written.

High school students seeking summer employment and graduates under the age of 18 often find that they cannot enter an occupation that has interested them or that offers good wages until they reach their 18th birthday, he said.

Barred at Resorts

A prohibition on youthful labor on inland waters once intended to cover docks and Great Lakes shipping has been interpreted to cover occupations dealing with motor boats and even water ski shows at summer resorts, he said.

Laws preventing the employment of youths under a certain age in theaters, he said, once undoubtedly were justifiable as they probably were intended to prevent curfew violations. But they have been used to prevent high school students from getting jobs cleaning outdoor children's theaters following afternoon presentations, Rowland said.

It might be possible to classify jobs within a field of employment, he suggested, so that a student could be hired to do such work but also could be prevented from taking other forms of employment such as those which might keep him out past a curfew.

The average age of high school graduates has dropped to 17, he said, and therefore many students who have decided not to go on to seek higher education have been forced to remain unemployed until they reached the legal age before entering the occupation of their choice.

He pointed to the construction trades in which no one under the age of 18 may be hired as an example of this situation.

The commission also decided to seek a face-to-face confrontation with industry and local officials from the Sheboygan and Kohler areas to settle a decade-old controversy regarding the reporting of employment statistics to the statistical division of the commission.

The statistics used to indicate economic levels and labor trends in industrial regions of the state are reported on the basis of federal standards to the state for use in the state publication of a monthly trend-report and for relay to the federal government.

The statistics have traditionally been reported on a city-by-city basis, and Sheboygan has traditionally placed at or near the bottom of average wage rates available.

Sheboygan Protests

H. A. Dales of Wiggam Mill Inc. of Sheboygan, one of the city's major labor employers, protested to the commission that averaging wage rates with out including the industry of Kohler, home of the Kohler plumbing works firm, resulted in the drawing of a distorted picture of labor conditions in the city of Sheboygan.

The Kohler firm, it was reported, has for the past 10 years objected to reporting wage rates and other economic data individually or included in the data for the city of Sheboygan because it would give competitors a graphic indication as to prevailing wage rates and profits of the firm, the only major employer of plumbing wage workers in the area. The state statistics are broken down into occupational fields, but individual firm statistics are supposed to be held confidential, according to the policy of the program.

The commission asked the Orrin Reich, head of the agency's division of reports and statistics, travel to Sheboygan and Kohler for joint meetings to end the problem which has existed since 1956.

BERLIN, Germany (AP) — The West German government is trying to reach a temporary agreement with France to keep French troops in Germany after they are withdrawn from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on July 1, an authoritative official source reports.

The week remaining is too short a time to reach a permanent accord on the status of the 72,000 French troops in Germany, the official said. The temporary agreement would at least make it clear that the troops are here as allies and not as victors of World War II.

Priority List Lack May Hurt Land Program

Legislature Failed To Revise Previous Acquisition Plan

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature's failure to enact a new outdoors recreation act budget and project priorities has handicapped the program of acquiring out-of-door recreation land, but the program will continue for the Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca counties of the year without significant change, a spokesman said here today.

The outdoor recreation committee had asked the law makers early in the 1965 legislative session to revise and to make more flexible the listing of project for land acquisitions and leases than was contained in the act five years earlier.

Proposed Borrowing

The bill was sidetracked, however, when there were proposals to amend it to include a long-range borrowing provision and the law makers decided to defer the plan pending the outcome of a vote next year on a constitutional amendment on the bonding question.

But we have some leeway in the original budget, a spokesman explained. We have operated under the advice of an advisory general's opinion that this is a 10-year budget and that only five years have passed. The act lists projects by specific descriptions and localities but it also permits the acquisition of remnant fish and wetlands and most of the new areas in which we are interested can be managed within those categories.

The official explained also that when especially desirable acquisition opportunities are offered that do not qualify under the constitutional law, the Conservation Department has been able to use its own directly budgeted funds to finance them.

Door County Veto

A possible complication was added that the provision of a Door County veto power of projects in that area continues in the law. The recreation committee had asked for its repeal and will do so again when the 1967 legislature convenes next January.

Door County persuaded the legislature to enact that clause five years ago because it feared excessive erosion of the land tax base in the district which already has sizeable tax exempt lake park and recreation tracts.

Average Man From Fox Valley Earns $210,000 in Life

Educational Level Important, Four-County Results Indicate

Special to the Post-Crescent

The lifetime earning capacity of the average male resident in the Fox Valley counties of Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca is $210,000, a recent survey has shown.

Both Winnebago and Outagamie counties are above the average for the area with $244,000 and $219,000 respectively.

A Calumet wage earner can expect to make $189,000 and Waupaca $168,000.

The figures are based on current conditions of employment, national productivity, education and life span. They are based on figures quoted by President Johnson recently to indicate the dollars and cents value of a better education.

Amount of Schooling

The estimated earning power takes into account the amount of schooling and the present level of income locally in relation to incomes in other parts of each county. The data come from the department of labor, commerce and others.

From a purely financial standpoint the figures show that whatever investment of time and money is made toward getting a good education it produces a very high rate of return.

Higher income in Winnebago also is reflected in the fact that the average male resident had 11 years of schooling, while Outagamie followed closely with 10.6 years. Calumet and Waupaca were tied at 9.4 years. Median in the state is 10.5.

Outagamie Figures

In Outagamie 26.3 per cent of the local male population age 25 or older have gone through elementary school, 25.2 per cent have completed high school and 8.1 per cent have had four or more years of college.

For Winnebago 24.4 per cent are elementary school graduates, 25.6 per cent high school graduates and 7.8 per cent college.

Calumet has 32.7 per cent elementary graduates, 22.9 per cent high school and 4.5 per cent college. Waupaca has 29.4 per cent elementary, 20.8 per cent high school and 4.9 per cent college graduates.

Agents Visit Dairy Farms

Fox Tractor Plant At Appleton Is Included in Tour

WEYAUWEGA — Fourteen county agents from as many midwest and southern states included Oscar Long's Belle View Farms here and the Hintz Brothers dairy farm at Marion recently on their tour through Wisconsin.

The only other stop the group made in the area was at the Fox Tractor plant, Appleton. They toured the plant and were guests at a noon luncheon.

Sponsored by the Dow Chemical Co. the group was made up of the outstanding county agent from each of the 14 states. The Wisconsin representative was Raymond Polzin, Superior.

Listed as a study tour, the group will spend 21 days through six states visiting farms, various type of manufacturing plants and an iron mine. The total trip will cover approximately 3,600 miles. Albert Hall, Hillsdale County, Mich., the tour leader said.

Sheep Breeders Hear Madison Show Winner

CHILTON — Sheep breeders from northeastern Wisconsin met at Seymour recently to hear Glenn Richards, Madison area farmer who raises sheep and beef cattle. He runs both a commercial and purebred flock of sheep and has been a constant winner at shows.

His purebred flock of Southdowns comes from foundation stock purchased from Albert Steffes, Jericho. "It was a Steffes' ewe that produced the Reserve Champion Carcass at Chicago," he said. He follows the Wisconsin recommendations in his operation.

Green chopping of hay is prevalent throughout the territory with a large amount of it going into silos in the southern sections of the state.

Quality Improved

About 6 per cent of the hay crop has been cut as compared to a year ago when nearly a fourth of the first cutting was in the barn. Indications are that quality of the hay is better than previous seasons as indicated by the sharp increase in milk production.

By mid-June about a third of the corn acreage where corn cultivation is the primary weed control had been worked. Progress is abreast of last year in this capacity but in most years about two-thirds of the cultivation was completed by now. Work is about a quarter to a half done.

The service reports corn is in good condition, but growth has been slow due to the cool weather. There is little silage corn being planted.

Oats in Good Color

Oats, although slow, are in color and about two weeks from heading in this area. It already has started in the southern tier of counties.

"With soil moisture adequate to better in nearly all areas, pasture is excellent, 94 per cent condition on the average and few counties below 90 per cent," the service said.

There are still some beans being planted in the north; most of the cabbage has been set out; potatoes are beginning to show and blossom in some area and cultivating has started; cucumbers are slow; cranberries have started to bloom but are being flooded for frost protection; Eau Claire County reports blossoms and plenty of green berries on the strawberry plants.

Farmers Told of Conserving Section of Diversion Programs

Farmers who have signed up for the 1966 national Education Conservation Act (ECA) are being told to conserve a section of their land. The act provides for the allotment and conservation of land for the production of feed grains or wheat. Farmers are urged to conserve a section of their land for the production of feed grains or wheat. The act provides for the allotment and conservation of land for the production of feed grains or wheat. Farmers are urged to conserve a section of their land for the production of feed grains or wheat.

Kimble Romberg, chairman of the Waupaca County committee for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said that a farmer participating in the diversion programs agrees to devote an amount of acreage to conserving uses which is equal to the farm's normal base acreage in such uses in addition to the acreage signed up for diversion under each 1966 program.

For instance, if the farmer signed up in both the feed grain and the wheat programs, he would need to devote to conserving uses all of the land diverted under both programs in addition to his conserving base. Even though he is producing his full allotment and is not receiving a diversion payment, any farmer participating in the wheat program sets aside diverted acreage at least equal to 15 percent of his 1966 farm allotment. Dodd Preparing His Witness

Investigation of New Turnpike in Connecticut

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
WASHINGTON — Senate Ethics Committee investigation of charges against Sen. Dodd takes a new turn. The Connecticut Democrat is a chance to present his case.

John F. Sonnett, Jr., declined to discuss the case with the writer. He said the case is a matter of public record.

A former assistant general Sonnett said he called five witnesses, probably being put to the test. Whether Dodd is the one to be tested or the other witness is not clear.

The six-member committee permitted two witnesses to present testimony. The former secretary, John Carpenter, said that the two, David Gerald Zeiler, had at least $10,000 by June 1966. Turn to Page 2.

Knowles He Will Highway

MADISON (AP) — to emphasize the need for continuing the highway program to upgrade and improve the state's highway system. Knowles said the state would sign the agreement for construction where the present highway ends near Eau Claire.

Knowles said the Chamber of Commerce is asking him to sign the project for four miles of highway.

The bill provides for completion of the project from Tomahawk and for the interest on the Hudson River. But the bill will not be issued until a 1967.

An increase from 10 cents a gallon to 12 cents a gallon in the state tax on motor fuel also included in the measure is expected to raise about $15 million for speed construction of the state trunk project.

Police Seal Off Two Pagodas Prevent Funeral, Demonstration

U. S. Soldiers Wage 2 Battles in Highlands; 'Loco-Trucks' Bombed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Paratroopers and riot police sealed off Hue's two main Buddhist pagodas today and exhausted away the coffins of two women who burned themselves to death last month in the Buddhist struggle against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government.

Ky's men threw up barbed-wire barriers in front of the Dieu De and To Dam pagodas to prevent the Buddhists from holding a public funeral — and probably an antigovernment demonstration — in defiance of a ban by the progovernment mayor and provincial chief, Lt. Col. Phan Van Khoa.

The two bodies, of a nun and a 17-year-old girl, had been kept in the Dieu De pagoda since their immolations on May 29 and May 31. The nun was the first of 10 Buddhist suicides by fire which failed to arouse sufficient public horror to bring down Ky's government.

Dubious Loyalty
Three Buddhist monks and about 20 soldiers of dubious loyalty also were arrested in the northern Buddhist stronghold, which Ky's forces seized two weeks ago after more than three months of rebellion.

The soldiers detained included a nephew of the Buddhist extremist Thich Tri Quang, now under arrest in a Saigon clinic where he continued a protest fast for the 17th day. Officials said the monk's kinsman provided the Buddhist struggle movement in Hue with arms from the stocks of the Vietnamese army's 1st Division.

U. S. troops fought the Communists at two points in the central highlands. No major South Vietnamese fighting was reported. Eight more Reds were reported killed in Operation Nam.

15 Enemy Killed
Inland, the 25th Infantry Division killed 15 of the enemy in an encounter with a Communist force of about 150 near Pleiku. The Tropic Lightning Division's kill figure since it began Operation.

Spring Session
The multi-number sessions every two years, the fiscal uncertainties of two-year budgets and mounting pressure for higher legislative salaries focused attention on the prospect of annual sessions.

The last eight years of politically-divided government in Wisconsin evoked a lot of talk about annual meetings, and now the change appears likely.

Any candidate running for the Legislature this fall had better come here counting on serving in annual sessions, predicts Assembly Speaker Robert Huber, D-West Allis.

Expects Referendum
That means he expects a constitutional referendum sponsored by Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, and passed once by both houses, to win public approval next April. The measure would allow annual sessions with no limit on length or subject matter.

The State Constitution now requires the Legislature to meet "once in two years, and no oftener." Despite this the extended spring session was the third meeting of the 1965 Legislature in this biennium.

The initial meeting lasted seven months, the second about 30 days. The constitutional requirement is circumvented by recessing after each meeting, instead of the customary adjournment sine die.

Victims of Crash Near Winchester Include Frank H. Witt, 49, Neenah

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County now has had more highway accident fatalities during the month of June than it had during the first half of 1965.

The latest victims, all who were involved in a head-on collision Thursday night on State 110 near Winchester:

Frank H. Witt, 49, 313 E. Forest Ave., Neenah.
Cyril Eckes, 53, 500 S. Maple Ave., Marshfield.
Al Thomas, 65, 1234 Church St., Stevens Point.

The accident, which claimed three lives, raised the number of highway deaths in Winnebago County during June to nine.

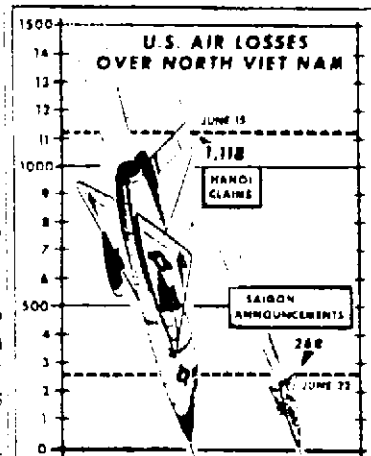

Last year, the county had eight highway deaths at this time. So far during 1965 there have been 17. Statewide, the count is now 413, compared to 424 on this date last year.

The Winnebago County accident occurred at about 9:25 p.m., three miles west of Winchester. County police reported Witt was driving east on State 110 when his car apparently skidded off the pavement onto the south shoulder of the road, and then came back across the highway and collided with the left front of the westbound vehicle which was driven by Eckes.

Both cars were completely demolished.

Coroner Art C. Miller ruled all three deaths resulted from severe internal and head injuries.

Only 20 days earlier, on June 3, five persons were killed in a Turn to Page 7, Col. 2

More Newsprint Produced in 5 Months Than Ever Before

NEW YORK (AP) — North America produced more newsprint than ever before in the first five months this year, the Newsprint Service Bureau says.

The total was 4,485,355 tons, up 11.1 per cent from 1965. U.S. mills accounted for a record 981,727 tons, up 5.5 per cent.

Canadian production rose 12.7 per cent, to 3,503,628 tons.

Senate Auto Safety Debate Gets Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today auto safety legislation designed to reduce highway death and accident tolls and encourage the development of more effective auto safety programs.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told newsmen he hoped the legislation could be passed by tonight. The Senate was scheduled to begin debate two hours early.

If not approved today, Mansfield said, it should be cleared and sent to the House early next week.

Strong support for auto safety legislation has built up in Congress in the light of steadily mounting highway death and injury totals. There is little question that the legislators will act in this field before the 1966 session ends.

Two separate bills now are pending before the Senate, but they may be merged into one before final passage.

Badly Shaken
"The public is badly shaken by these estimates," said Huber, "because it really doesn't know whom to believe."

Huber pointed out that presidential election year, the political games now played by both parties.

During the spring session, Democrats forecast from $40 million to $71 million would be available for additional spending.

Republican Gov. Warren P. Ruby, 55, is not attending the hearing.

Whether the judges affirm the death sentence or order a new trial will not be known for more than three months. The court has annual sessions.

The fiscal difficulties of approaching funds and levying taxes for a budget approaching $1 billion over a two-year period has numerous opportunities for political sniping and general inactivity.

"I can't see for the life of me how legislators meeting in the odd numbered years can project accurately the revenue coming in and the expenditures going out," said Assembly Minority Leader Paul Afonsi, R-Minocqua.

Revenue surplus "guestimates" typify the political games now played by both parties.

King-Sized Controversy In New York

Faisal Loses Official Standing As City Visitor

NEW YORK (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, stripped of his standing as an official city visitor, begins his visit to New York today as the guest of the United Nations and several private groups.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, under public and political pressure, canceled a planned welcoming dinner for Faisal Thursday night. By order of the mayor, no city official was on hand to greet Faisal when the king arrived at La Guardia Airport from Washington.

Lindsay said Faisal's remark in Washington about Jews "has made it impossible for me, as mayor of New York City, to extend the official welcome of the city."

Faisal had been asked at a Washington luncheon about an Arab boycott of U.S. business firms trading with Israel.

"Unfortunately Jews support Israel and we consider those who provide assistance to our enemies as our own enemies," the king replied.

Lindsay commented: "The remark is extremely offensive, not just to Jews, but to all the citizens of New York."

New York has about 2 million Jews.

Faisal attends a luncheon at the United Nations today as guest of the world organization.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg also plans to attend the luncheon barring "an unforeseen event," said a spokesman for the U.S. delegation.

Tonight, the Arab monarch is scheduled to be the guest of the Arabian American Oil Co. at a dinner at the Waldorf Astoria, where he is staying. Other receptions by private organizations are scheduled through Wednesday.

America's New 'Star' Orbits Poles to Help Map-Makers

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — America's new star in the sky, a silvery 100-foot balloon-orbited poles today, providing a new way to find out where on earth things are.

PAGEOS, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's earth-mapping project, is a 125-pound plastic balloon coated with aluminum. PAGEOS stands for Passive Geodetic Earth-Orbiting Satellite.

The big ball, intricately folded inside a canister, was pushed into orbit Thursday by a thrust-augmented Thor-Agena-D rocket combination. Its orbital path is circular, 2,600 miles above the earth.

Once in orbit, the balloon was popped out of its protective canister. The big gas bag expanded as the heat of the sun vaporized chemicals inside.

PAGEOS' mission, scientists said, is to act as the world's highest-flying photographers' model, providing a pinpoint of reflected light near the horizon nightly.

This pinpoint of light, photographed from several points on earth against a background of stars, will provide the prime reference point for a 5-year study aimed at correcting the world's maps.

The big ball, scientists said, should be visible to the naked eye as it reflects the light of the sun. They said the satellite would be as bright as the star Polaris (the North Star).

Photographs, to be taken from 41 points on earth, will be coordinated to locate, precisely, the continents, islands and other earthly features.

The resulting data, scientists explained, will enable them to locate any point on earth to within 100 feet of its true position.

Mississippi, Cleveland, Chicago: Sites of Violence As Pompano Tension Eases

Mississippi marchers prepared for new "confrontations" today as police waited tensely in Chicago and Cleveland after racial incidents Thursday night. The incidents at three widely scattered points around the country took over the civil rights spotlight as relative calm prevailed at Pompano Beach, Florida, the scene of rioting earlier in the week.

In Chicago, police were called upon Thursday night to hold back a crowd of white persons threatening a group of Negroes playing baseball. A young Negro boy was shot and wounded and a white woman was injured by a thrown brick in Cleveland as violence erupted in an East Side neighborhood for the second consecutive night.

CANTON, Miss. (AP) — Frazzled by a hectic night of tear gas and tension, the Mississippi march regroups today for new "confrontations."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said a detachment would drive 60 miles east to Philadelphia, Miss., a Ku Klux Klan stronghold, for a rally.

"We will maintain the peace come hell or high water," said Gov. Paul Johnson, in urging Philadelphia residents to stay away from the rally — part of the march's effort to spur Negro voter registration.

The busy schedule also called for organization of Negro boycott of downtown white merchants and a general work stoppage by Negroes in Canton, while a few continue the march toward Jackson.

Meredith Recovered
From Canton, the march swings south along U.S. 51, the same highway where it all was started by James H. Meredith in Memphis, Tenn., 20 days and 220 miles ago. Jackson is 20 miles from Canton.

Recovered from his wounds, Meredith — now a Columbia University law student — planned to rejoin the march today.

Claude Stretter, traveling with Meredith, said they would leave Memphis by car at 3 p.m. EST.

Meredith was carrying the ivory and ebony walking cane given him by an African chief — with tape binding the crack caused when he fell on the cane during the shooting.

King, who got a strong dose of tear gas in Thursday night's uproar in Canton, called the highway patrol move to drive a high level.

A Republican minority report, agreeing that the huge appropriation won't be enough, called for creation of a "blue ribbon commission" to make an "independent and objective evaluation of the projected defense posture of this country."

Brillion High Instructor Named to Coordinate Joint Training School

Harry Drier to Head Vocational Program; Metal Fabrication, Mechanics Classes Set

BRILLION — Harry Drier, high school guidance counselor, has been named vocational coordinator of the cooperative vocational training program for high school juniors and seniors. Two classes will be offered to approximately 125 students from Stockbridge, Reedsville and Brillion. All phases of metal fabrication, from foundry to machine shop operation, will be covered in one class. The power mechanics class will include work on all types of engines.

Teachers for the school still are being sought, according to Drier.

Advisory Committee

Don Hepler, Jim Snetting, Adolph Nelson, Mel Koch, Wilford Knoespel, Henry Horn Jr. and Harold Jentink are the school's advisory committee.

A portion of the old Ariens Co. plant has been rented to house the state's first cooperative training program.

High school and industrial officials teamed up earlier this year in an attempt to meet the needs of non-college bound male students.

A catalyst in the development of the program was a research project sponsored by the Fox Valley Curriculum Study Council to study the educational needs of the students who will not attend college. The survey of the class of 1964 in 20 Fox Valley area schools reinforced suspicions of school officials that academic requirements of male students were not being met.

Program Cost

One-half of the program's total cost will be paid from funds available under the Vocational Act of 1963.

Donations of money, equipment and supplies are assured from General Motors, Ford Motor, Ford Tractor, International Harvester, Brillion Iron Works, Rent-A-Truck and Mobile Sales. Modern Business Machines, Inc. and the Ariens Co.

Eight area high schools were interested in the program early in the year, but since that time five schools decided not to participate this first year.

Counseling Duties

Drier — who will continue his counseling duties at the high school three periods a day and spend four class periods at the vocational training school — was among the 178 college, technical institute and high school instructors from all over the United States who attended the 7th annual foundry instructors seminar at Stout State University, Menominee, last week.

The three-day intensive foundry procedure program included the history of cast metals, new developments in the foundry, molding practice, teaching aids, the new audio visual aids and materials, casting methods, and sand technology, melting practice, laboratory facilities and casting projects.

The institute was sponsored by the Training and Research Institute of American Foundrymen's Society, of which the Brillion Iron Works is a member.

New Power Source for Fox Valley

Nuclear Plant Also Generates Revenue

The new $60 million nuclear plant, which will be constructed by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. in the Town of Twin Creeks, Manitowish County, will have an annual operating payroll of more than one-half million dollars, members of the recently.

Speaking on "Nuclear Power for the Fox Valley," was Daniel Sullivan, of the Wisconsin-Michigan employ training department, who presented some statistics on the plant which will be completed by early 1970. "Nuclear costs are competitive," he said. "We would not be building a nuclear plant if they were not."

Conserves Fossil Fuel

It must also be remembered that they are safe and will conserve fossil fuel, he said. "This is important due to the new audio visual aids and materials, casting methods, and sand technology, melting practice, laboratory facilities and casting projects." Sullivan also stressed that there will be no government subsidy of any sort for the new plant, because the plant will not be an experimental reactor, for which subsidies are primarily provided.

The new plant will employ an average of 500 persons during construction with a top of 700, will require three years to build and when completed will have a plant force of about 60," he said.

$1.5 Million Taxes

The plant will pay $1.5 million in state and local taxes and of this amount, $800,000 will be returned to the county and community, he said. Giving an overall picture of the nuclear plant situation, Sullivan said that there now are 13 plants in operation in the U.S. and six major commercial plants now under construction. In 1964 about 1 per cent of the total U.S. generating capacity was nuclear. By 1970 it should be from 10 to 15 per cent; by 1980's, 30 to 40 per cent and by 2,000, 50 per cent, he said.

He also listed some advantages of such a plant. "The future holds several possibilities for cost reductions for both nuclear and coal plants with

When even these smaller groups remain relatively large, it becomes difficult to provide the necessary time to help students with individual problems, Jarchow said. He added that when multiple grades are housed in a room, it becomes even more difficult to find enough time to meet with each group.

In addition to the regular classroom teachers, special teachers are hired by the district to teach vocal and instrumental music, art, remedial reading, Spanish, physical education and speech therapy.

Vocal music is taught in the classrooms, with materials and piano being moved in and out of the classroom for each period, Jarchow said, while instrumental music is carried on in "any nook or corner."

General Classroom Art is taught in the general classroom, with materials moved in and out because the normal classroom is not suited for art. Teaching of art becomes very difficult where multiple grades exist in the same room, the superintendent said.

Remedial reading is held in the cramped "vacated" Weyauwega elementary office and in a corner of the Fremont school gymnasium when it is not in use.

Spanish classes also are held in the vacated office at Weyauwega and in another classroom when children go to lunch. In Fremont, the class is held in classrooms where students are scheduled for physical education.

Physical education is held in the present gym at Weyauwega and Fremont. Rural schools can carry on a program only in the fall and spring, when children can go outside. Gyms also are used for hot lunch and are not adequate for upper grades according to Jarchow.

Special Education The superintendent noted the district does not provide a room for special education, which would provide an opportunity for low achievers to compete on a level of their own.

Space is needed to reduce the number of children per classroom, to provide effective and efficient facilities for special areas of instruction and to facilitate more efficient kitchen operations, Jarchow said.

Hot lunch facilities need to be increased to operate more efficiently and prepare meals at a lower cost, Jarchow said many items must be purchased that could be prepared at a saving.

Public May Not Have Access to Questionnaires

LaFollette Rules On Legislators' Salaries Survey

MADISON (AP) — Proposed questionnaires on legislative salaries to be filled out by the lawmakers themselves will be public records, but the public may not necessarily have access to them.

Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette said today he had told Carl Wettengel, director of the Bureau of Personnel, that the decision to allow public inspection of the questionnaires will be up to Wettengel.

The question of whether the documents will be open or not depends in part on the form of the questionnaire," LaFollette said. He said it is anonymous, he sees no reason why it shouldn't be made public.

Kellett Proposal

An advisory committee, headed by William Kellett of Menasha, given the task of recommending salary levels for legislators, has proposed sending the questionnaires to lawmakers. LaFollette said the committee "was more likely to get accurate information" if anonymous.

Weyauwega Problem Superintendent Scores Classroom Crowding

WEYAUWEGA — Crowded conditions in the Weyauwega School District have caused problems beyond the general classroom, Superintendent Merle Jarchow has told district residents in a newsletter.

Overcrowded classes are bad, Jarchow said, because practically every child's ability is at a different level for reading, mathematics, science and other phases of learning.

If 30 to 40 students are housed in the same room, there are approximately that many ability levels for each area of instruction. Working individually with each student becomes impossible, the superintendent said.

Students then are grouped according to range of ability, generally by reading ability, since this is considered the most important area.

Necessary Time

When even these smaller groups remain relatively large, it becomes difficult to provide the necessary time to help students with individual problems, Jarchow said. He added that when multiple grades are housed in a room, it becomes even more difficult to find enough time to meet with each group.

In addition to the regular classroom teachers, special teachers are hired by the district to teach vocal and instrumental music, art, remedial reading, Spanish, physical education and speech therapy.

Sheboygan Approves Air Wisconsin Service

Appleton-Based Commuter Firm to Provide Four Daily Passenger Flights to Chicago

SHEBOYGAN — Air service is scheduled to begin in this city beginning in October as a result of a decision reached here Thursday by the Sheboygan County Board's airport committee.

The committee voted unanimously to accept a proposal by Air Wisconsin, an Appleton-based commuter airline, to provide regular scheduled passenger and freight service between the Sheboygan County Airport and O'Hare Field at Chicago.

The committee and the Sheboygan Chamber of Commerce aviation committee had been considering rival air service proposals made by Air Wisconsin and Mid-State Air Commuter, of Marshfield.

No date has been set for the beginning of service, but it is expected to start by Oct. 1, shortly after Air Wisconsin receives its first 17-passenger turbo-jet aircraft from DeHavilland of Canada, Ltd. The first of the two new turbo-jet "Twin Otters" is expected to arrive early in September. Another one is scheduled for delivery in March, 1967.

4 Trips Daily

Schedules and service details will be formally worked out at a later date, but in its proposal, Air Wisconsin said it could provide four round-trip flights daily between Sheboygan and Chicago. An Air Wisconsin plane would fly from Appleton to Sheboygan early in the morning, and then make the four round-trips before returning to Appleton at night.

The fixed base operator terminal at the county airport will be remodeled to provide for ticket counter space and a passenger waiting room.

The airport committee also granted Air Wisconsin permission to use the county airport for commercial purposes and recommended a set of landing fees.

The clerk said either 500 signatures or 10 per cent of the district was needed, therefore the petition is valid making a referendum mandatory.

The office of Bronson LaFollette, attorney general, is in the process of establishing a date. According to statutes the referendum must be within 30 days after filing unless there is a spring or fall election then a 90 day period is valid, the clerk said.

A decision is expected from the attorney general's office within a few days.

Hospital Remodeling to Cost $39,000

NEW LONDON — Community Hospital is in the process of remodeling the hospital's X-ray department and installing new equipment.

Roger L. Metz, assistant administrator, said the remodeling and new equipment would cost about $39,000 and would be financed through hospital funds.

This is another step in providing the New London area with better medical care and treatment," Metz said.

A new X-ray unit, automatic processor and image intensifier is being installed. The film processor will develop and dry film within seven minutes instead of the one hour it now takes.

The new equipment will allow the radiologist to make quicker diagnosis.

Kellett Unit Calls for 13 Departments

BY DAVE NOWAK

A preliminary blueprint for a "modified commission" form of state government that has "legislative sex appeal" was drawn up Thursday afternoon by a subcommittee of the temporary Reorganization Committee on State Government.

The proposal, which calls for 13 state administrative departments, was the result of an intensive two-day session at Biggar's Motel, Appleton.

The full committee, created by the Legislature to prepare a blueprint for the reorganization of the administrative and legislative branches of state government, is composed of legislators, citizens and state administrative personnel. William R. Kellett, retired president of Kimberly-Clark Corp., is chairman.

Further Study After further study by the state Department of Administration, the proposal will be submitted to the full committee at a two-day session at Madison in mid-July.

Under the subcommittee's proposal, there would be six departments run by a single commissioner, and three commissions headed by three men, one of whom would be designated chairman. These nine departments or commissions would be separate from the governor's office.

Agencies which would be part of the governor's office are the Department of Public Instruction, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the Investment Board, and the adjutant general's office.

All other state agencies and boards would be grouped, according to function.

Machinery Set in Motion Considering New High Level Span Over Fox at Appleton

Machinery is in motion to a project, 1969 would be a tentative starting date for construction of the new high level bridge across the Fox River in the general area of Oneida Street, providing a new gateway to Appleton's central city.

The city council's street-sanitation committee has recommended a study of the proposed multi-million dollar project, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), committee chairman and council president, disclosed Tuesday night.

Pointer made his announcement during a special meeting of the council after agreement was reached to purchase two homes on Prospect Avenue from the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. as part of a land and property package between the city and utility.

Preliminary Studies The committee has met and will be asking the council to approve preliminary studies and the making of foundation tests for the bridge which would extend over Oneida Street," Pointer said.

The actual committee recommendation will not come before the council until its regular meeting July 5.

New London Sailor Gets 45-Day Term

R. P. Meshke, 19, AWOL, Pleads Guilty Of Beer Violation

WAUPACA — Richard P. Meshke, 19, 1614 Nassau St., New London, was sentenced to 45 days in the county jail Thursday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to charges of possession of beer off a licensed premises and littering.

He was unable to pay a $100 fine for possession of beer and $25 for littering. He was arrested by Manawau police June 17 after a patrolman saw Meshke throw three beer cans out of a car. At the time of the incident, Meshke was accompanied by 14 and 17 year old boys. Both have been referred to juvenile authorities.

Meshke was scheduled to appear in court June 20 and when he did not appear a warrant was issued and he was found in Milwaukee Tuesday.

Meshke's brother Bruce, 22, now serving a 45-day jail sentence in the county jail for traffic violations committed in New London.

It has been learned that both brothers are wanted by Navy authorities for being absent without leave since early in May.

Upon release from jail the two will be turned over to military authorities.

Remedial reading is held in the cramped "vacated" Weyauwega elementary office and in a corner of the Fremont school gymnasium when it is not in use.

Spanish classes also are held in the vacated office at Weyauwega and in another classroom when children go to lunch. In Fremont, the class is held in classrooms where students are scheduled for physical education.

Physical education is held in the present gym at Weyauwega and Fremont. Rural schools can carry on a program only in the fall and spring, when children can go outside. Gyms also are used for hot lunch and are not adequate for upper grades according to Jarchow.

Special Education The superintendent noted the district does not provide a room for special education, which would provide an opportunity for low achievers to compete on a level of their own.

Space is needed to reduce the number of children per classroom, to provide effective and efficient facilities for special areas of instruction and to facilitate more efficient kitchen operations, Jarchow said.

Hot lunch facilities need to be increased to operate more efficiently and prepare meals at a lower cost, Jarchow said many items must be purchased that could be prepared at a saving.

Knowles and the Democrats

The increasingly resentful public statements of the principal statehouse Democrats about the successes of Republican Governor Knowles suggest the measure of the loss the Democrats suffered two years ago when the voters required them to surrender the governorship.

The governor, quite aside from his personality or politics, or capacity, is the ranking politician on the state political stage. His powers and prerogatives and responsibilities command attention. In a manner much like that made familiar by the President's domination of political attention in Washington, to the occasional frustration of the Congress, the man in the East Wing of the state capitol can communicate with the electorate more effectively than can the numerous and generally anonymous state legislators, whatever their importance, real or fancied.

Assembly Speaker Robert Huber of West Allis, ordinarily a careful and cautious man, surrenders to the temptation to extravagant accusation when he speaks in the Democratic party campaign, which he does in a current article in the Democratic Party's state propaganda organ. The Republican governor, he writes, "has become the greatest legislative rustler in the history of Wisconsin." Mr. Huber is using a polite if idiomatic synonym for the word "thief." The man in the executive office, Huber makes plain he intends to say, has stolen ideas from others, called them his own, and is claiming credit for their achievement.

The facts are, of course, that the Republican governor has managed with great success to adapt himself to the circumstance that the Democrats control one house of the legislature and therefore have a power of veto over his proposals. Through patience, imagination, an insight into the psychology of legislative politics, hard, drudging work on the campaign stump, and perhaps a degree of cajolery, the governor has managed to achieve a first term record that would be estimable if he had a completely tame legislature of his own choosing. That the Democrats have endorsed so many of his proposals is a mark of their good sense and responsibility, as we have observed before. But they are resentful, nevertheless, that these legislative advances will be credited to the Knowles administration, having occurred during the Knowles' term and with the benefit of his advocacy as well as theirs.

Yet they are also unwilling to acknowledge that the governor on some major questions has shown courageous initiative, and the probability that without his presence in the executive office some of the record would not have been made. In the long range, the new pollution bill will probably rank as the most significant of this state capitol term. Can the Democrats really claim credit for that? The governor started out his term with a broad-scale citizens' conference intended to marshal public interest and support for new legislation. He put together a blue ribbon commission of specialists to draft a bill. He negotiated willingly with the partisan opposition when the Democrats insisted upon key changes and deletions and additions. He has now wrought what may be the most advanced pollution control concept in any state of this country.

To say that Knowles is a "rustler," in this regard and in others, is to impugn the attentiveness of the voter and the integrity of the public press accounts of this development. The record will show, in fact, that the reluctant Democrats of the assembly agreed to a compromise with the Republican administration only at the urgent request of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, the best ideal of conservation crusading in the Democratic definition.

Sen. Nelson has a good conservation record. Yet he and his Democratic successor as governor had six years in which to contrive a more effective Wisconsin pollution effort. He discovered the menace of water deterioration after he reached Washington. Now he has evidently concluded that he doesn't want to risk a challenge, in his reelection campaign two years hence, about Democratic sabotage of an enlightened contribution to the cause of a Republican state administration.

Dagger and Cloak in Ghana

We have scoffed at the "conspiratorial" viewpoint of things as exemplified by the far rightists in the United States who see Communist infiltrations and plots in everything with which they disagree. But in Nkrumah's Ghana exactly that was the state of affairs, according to some 30,000 secret documents that have come to light since Nkrumah was deposed.

Nkrumah dreamed of running all Africa under what he called a "Continental Union Government" and he apparently felt that the best machinery to catapult him into continental authority was the Communist Party. But the way things were working out it is a little difficult to determine who was using whom although the aim of both was control of as much of Africa — and perhaps the world — as could be obtained.

There was a spy school for Ghanians set up in Accra with Nkrumah's approval by the Ministry of State Security in East Berlin. Its cover was a nonexistent institution called the National Scientific Research Laboratory. Some of the graduates pretended they were stenographers and mimeograph operators last fall in order to infiltrate the secretariat of the Organization of National Unity which Nkrumah obviously thought wasn't united quite enough in his favor. They also installed listening devices in the rooms of every delegate. Two East German intelligence officers were the instructors in the espionage school but they were deported in a hurry when Nkrumah was ousted.

Then there was the Bureau of African Affairs, supposedly in charge of honest diplomatic matters but really another cover for spies. Here all of Africa was divided into five regions with a chief and other agents for each. But so that friendly nations, like Tanzania, wouldn't be upset, "false flag agents" allegedly working from some other African country and believing so, were hired to do the spying. And the weapons for Nkrumah's private little army, which was overpowered by the regular military forces, came from Russia. There were actually a lot more weapons than men discovered so it is presumed that the arms were intended to help out rebellious forces in other African nations.

Nkrumah also was encouraging the training in Ghana of exiles from other African states, quite regardless of the stability or status of the home governments. The training camp for the dissidents was directed by Chinese Communists and its cover was that it was helping "freedom fighters" prepare to free their lands from colonial rule. At least half the trainees, however, came from the already independent nations of Nigeria, Gabon, Upper Volta, Niger, Cameroon, Rwanda, Zambia, Malawi and Tanzania.

But the conspirators were routed when Nkrumah fell from power. It will be interesting to see whether they find bases in other African countries and for how long.

Chicago Doesn't Need This Kind of Help

It seems something of a change-about that agitation for more demonstrations in the Puerto Rican community in Chicago allegedly is coming from New York. Chicago has long been regarded in the east as the major source of crime, discontent and general evildoing in the entire nation.

But it may be even more surprising that New York City's East Harlem Tenants Council which has been pushing a protest march in Chicago is an arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the stated aim is to get federal anti-poverty funds for Chicago's Puerto Ricans.

The demonstrations, some of which turned into riots in Chicago, originally appeared to be primarily in protest against the handling of Puerto Ricans by the Chicago police and other law enforcement officials. The trouble is certainly not over although it may have broken out because of increased emotional tension during Puerto Rican week. But it is important that Mayor Daley and Police Superintendent Wilson have acknowledged that the demonstrations were not just one day affairs. The mayor met with community leaders and the police were given new instructions on how to quiet down the rioters rather than round them up. Perhaps of even greater importance in quelling potential outbreaks was the work of Spanish speaking social workers, clergymen and leaders of Puerto Rican groups.

Chicago police are now to get a more intensified training in Spanish. There will be greater efforts than in the past to predict trouble areas and to cooperate with Puerto Rican community leaders. But certainly Chicago has no need of New York leaders to exploit the local problems for the benefit of the federal program.

Whorton's New Shingle Mill

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 28, 1866.

We had the pleasure of witnessing the working of Messrs. Whorton's new shingle mill last week.

The shingles are cut with a saw, horizontally hung, which works very accurately, making very smooth and handsome shingles, with great rapidity, though not to so great an extent as some other machines.

Their machine has the advantage over many others in economizing lumber.

The new mill now is the scene of great activity. First is the "Clipper" saw, over which Ald F. I. Bouter presides. This he does with skill and tact, working up the logs into lumber or bolts for the shingle mill.

In the basement story of the mill is the planning and matching machine, introduced at a cost of over $1,200, which, we believe Mr. George Harrod operates. Also, there is a lathe machine.

Messrs. Whorton have their hands full to supply the stock to keep the establishment

Washington Insight:

Presidential Appointments Hint Basic Reforms in U.S. Agencies

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The latest crop of presidential appointments expresses a pattern of change without movement. Adjustments have been made, even improvements. But the requirements were for basic reform.

Kraft

The best case in point, and probably the most important of the appointments, is the naming of a new chairman to the Federal Communications Commission. The appointment has to be measured against the prospect of an imminent revolution in communications. Before long, satellites will probably replace cables as a means of transmission for everything from television to phone calls.

Progress so far has been swift, thanks to a complex of international agreements worked out between the Communications Satellite Corp. or COMSAT, representing this country and the chief transmission authorities abroad. Technically, all of COMSAT's acts are subject to approval by the FCC. But under the outgoing chairman, E. William Henry, interim approval was given pending the lengthy review that is traditional with all regulatory agencies.

Rosel Hyde, who succeeds Henry as FCC chairman, is an estimable gentleman with more than two decades of experience as an FCC staff member and commissioner.

But as an FCC veteran, closely tied to the commission staff and to the cable-owners threatened by satellite communication, Hyde is not particularly receptive to the revolution now in process, still less to the device of interim approval instead of pushing ahead. COMSAT and its international partners will probably have to slow their progress to the snail's pace of the FCC staff.

NOW MANAGERIAL.

The appointment of Dr. Samuel Nahrit to the Atomic Energy Commission reflects the same conflict between individual competence and special job requirements. It is no doubt fit that a qualified Negro be named to a post in the national security community.

But the basic fact is that the business of the AEC is now largely managerial, not deliberative. It should be the province of a single administrator, not a commission. Indeed, retention of the commission form is one reason why so much business involving the atom—particularly in the disarmament field—has moved so slowly.

In the case of Henry Owen, newly named to be chairman of the policy planning council at the State Department, there is equally no question of his capacity. Owen is a civil servant of rare intellectual distinction.

It happens, however, that Owen was the candidate, against considerable opposition, of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. His designation suggests that Rusk is more firmly emplaced than ever and that, in turn, indicates that the critical posts of No. 2 and No. 3 to Rusk will be filled, not by fresh faces, but by the sluggish foreign service officers the secretary has always found so congenial.

Central Intelligence.

As to the Central Intelligence Agency, the resignation of Adm. William Raborn is a clear gain. Richard Helms, the able new director, has actually been running the agency for months as deputy director.

But the central fact is that the necessary rethinking of the agency's role in government is not about to come off now. Helms has been with the CIA and its predecessor agencies since 1943. As much as anybody in town he has had an interest—and the ability to hide the mistakes of the past.

In fairness, I suppose, I must add a couple of grace notes. That men of such ability as Owen and Helms exist in the foreign policy bureaucracy is a remarkable fact—a fact that explains the diminishing importance of the outside Establishment in running American foreign policy. The retirement of Adm. Raborn, after much criticism in this column and elsewhere, belies the foolish notion that an official becomes cemented in his job as soon as his unsuitability is made known to the world.

Democrats' Troubles Reflected in Platform Statement on Viet Nam

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The anguish of the Democratic Party of Wisconsin as it prepares for a new appeal to the voters of Wisconsin is shown by its ambivalent platform declaration on the most difficult public question of the times — the Viet Nam war.

Wyngaard

The effort of the Democratic state convention on the war issue and the national Democratic administration's record was intended—as were many other platform declarations — to provide an accommodation for opposing points of view. Curiously, the candidates for the gubernatorial nomination were more closely involved in the platform writing than were some of the Wisconsin members of the United States Congress, who are directly associated with the policy of the national government.

As the delegate convention finally resolved its position, the platform offered a deliberately lukewarm endorsement to President Johnson as leader of the war, and then called for a cease fire and a withdrawal from the conflict in Asia. Nobody who reads the document can doubt that the platform, as it stands, is a direct challenge of the policies of the Johnson administration, and a confession by the

STRANGE DOINGS

Yet the bysander may have some serious doubts about the meaning of the party convention's statement, however it is construed literally.

There was the fact that two of the men who have titular leadership positions were only glancingly involved in the platform deliberations. Sen.

Gaylord Nelson, who is carefully preparing his own reelection drive two years hence, had very little to do with the business and it is difficult to escape the conclusion that he absented himself deliberately. Sen. William Proxmire, the state's senior senator, contented himself with an indirect involvement in the person of an aide who was a member of the platform committee which finally produced the equivocal war statement.

Rep. Lynn Staibaum of Racine, a first termee who is worrying about his campaign in a marginal district, publicly asserted his view after the convention that the final war section in the platform was not representative of the party as a whole. Rep. John Race of Ford du Lac also appeared doubtful.

Staibaum said the "convention" was not representative convention, but reflected largely the wishes of the Dane County party and the friends of Second District Rep. Robert Kastenmaier, the closest thing to a "dove" in the Wisconsin congressional delegation, who dominated the slender attendance at the late evening bobtail session which finally approved the platform. Parenthetically, a symptom of the quality of the convention was the report that only about 200 banquet tickets were sold for what had been billed as a major feature of the weekend delegate rally.

CONFUSION REMAINS

A reasonable supposition after the Democrats' painful performance is that the Administration party in Wisconsin is worried about carrying the war issue into a campaign season when many other factors tend to be discouraging to their cause. Probably involved to a degree is the lingering isolationist preference of some of the Dane County Democrats who got their training in the old LaFollette movement.

There is confusion in the minds of these politicians, as well as among private citizens, about the progress, the risks, the ultimate goals, the costs, and most of all, about the alternatives for war in Southeast Asia. It is difficult to assume that the party is truly demanding withdrawal in Viet Nam when some of its principal spokesmen are silent, or violently opposed to such a course. Rep. Clement Zablocki of Milwaukee, for example, is probably the best informed Wisconsin Democratic politician on the issue, and demanded a party statement of complete endorsement of the administration. Zablocki is also one of the most successful votegetters in the Wisconsin party's history.

Strictly Personal

Women's Lives More Emotional Than Men

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I can't imagine why so many newspapers thought it was front-page material when a psychological experiment at UCLA last month disclosed that little boys are nicer to one another than little girls are.

Harris

The research indicated that "girls are more aggressive and reject other people more than boys do." The girls, also, were more inclined "to inflict pain and discomfort on some other child."

Any parents who have carefully observed their boy-children and their girl-children as both sexes progressed through school could have no doubts that this was the case, without any experimental verifying. Boys form clubs to enjoy one another's company; girls form cliques to exclude other girls, to criticize them and to feel superior to them.

By the time the girls are in fourth or fifth grade, they have developed to a high degree the power to wound and ostracize other girls, and are intensely competitive in the social and sartorial areas. The boys—who, perhaps, get rid of their aggressive and competitive tendencies in sports — simply do not bother with boys they do not like.

It would seem that boys respect the masculinity of boys more than girls accept the femininity of girls; and this would argue some basic inferiority feeling that either nature or culture has implanted in them.

But this feminine tendency to suspect, criticize and reject other women cuts both ways. Because every woman is, in some sense, every other woman's natural enemy, it is also more important for her to have feminine allies and form confederacies throughout life.

Thus, men, as they grow up, tend not to have nearly as many close friends as women do. There may be several men they like, but most adult males do not have a "best friend," as nearly all women do, in an intimate, confidential, and self-disclosing way. Men, on the whole, are not as critical of other men as women are of other women; and by the same token, neither do they form such close attachments to persons of the same sex.

All generalizations of this kind are dangerous, but it seems to me that women have a richer, more thickly-textured, more intense, emotional life than men do; they love stronger and they hate stronger, from the time they are little girls. Men live more in the temperate zone, emotionally, and this is why their love often seems weak and cool to a woman.

The very word, "love," indeed, may mean quite different things to a man and to a woman, because their needs and expectations are different. It is when this difference is not recognized and accepted on both sides that "love" begins to curdle — and even here it curdles differently: for the women, it usually turns into hate, for the man, into indifference.

GOP National Committee Asserts Itself

Finally Chastises Group Operating as Party Within Party

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Essential but unpleasant political surgery avoided by the winter meeting of the Republican National Committee last January finally began somewhat tortuously at the committee's spring meeting this week.

The surgery was needed to graft the Young Republican federation, which has been functioning as a party within a party, back as a dependent arm of the Republican National Committee. That so basic a task was so long avoided testifies to the internal problems of the party following the Goldwater debacle.

Indeed the YR problem which preoccupied National Committee members in corridors of the Sheraton Park Hotel last week has broader connotations. Just how close the Republicans come to solving it before the national committee's fair test of how far the executive committee, Morton Blais, has entered into the party's Goldwater era.

How It All Started

The story begins in April 1965 when Ray C. Blais took over as Republican National

Players Selected for Summer Musical at Kaukauna High

KAUKAUNA — The leading performers for the Kaukauna High School summer musical, HMS Pinafire, have been elected according to Robert Lamont, musical director. Supporting singers will be announced.

Miss Frances Church will serve as stage director for the performances tentatively scheduled Aug. 2 and 3 in the Civic Auditorium.

The idea of a summer musical production proved successful in past years because it gave students more time to rehearse without interference from studies or other school activities.

Students selected to sing in the chorus will play a vital role in the production and all have a moment in the spotlight. The production has no such thing as a small part. Miss Church said.

Soloist Roles

Soloists playing the part of young lovers will be Mary Schmidt and Ken Schmidt while Phil Foxgrover will play the ship's captain. Tom Wieseier is the other man in the love triangle. Kirk Weber has the role of a boatswain's mate and Scott Bay will play the part of a villain.

Other leading characters will be Lois Schmidt, a Little Buttercup, a peddler woman and Kay Van Zummeren, who plays the part of a guardian angel.

In addition to students singing in the chorus, other students will be needed to assist behind the scenes with make-up, costumes, lighting, stage setting and other facets of the production. Volunteers can contact Miss Church.

Many were kicked and slugged with gun butts by the gas-masked highway patrolmen as demonstrators groped blindly in the acrid clouds of tear gas rolling over the area.

One white Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. John Prater of Chicago, who has been on the march for several days, was punched in the stomach with a rifle butt. When a marcher protested that the priest was a "man of God," the officer snapped, "I'll put him with his God."

CHICAGO (AP) — Helmed policemen held back a crowd of white persons threatening a group of Negroes playing baseball Thursday night in a South Side lakefront park.

About 75 Negroes, most of them from the Ida B. Wells public housing project, traveled 10 miles to play ball in Calumet Park.

A crowd of white people gathered and exchanged jeers and taunts with the Negroes. Police arrested several whites and Negroes. Frank Ditto, a leader of the Negroes, was charged with inciting to riot.

Mike Anderson, 18, a Negro, said, "We felt it was our God-given right to go where we wanted to go. In the Ida B. Wells housing development, we don't have grass to play on."

ation Paul Revere May 10 rose to 425, the U.S. command reported.

Among the targets of U.S. planes in 84 missions against North Viet Nam Thursday were six trucks that Navy aerial reconnaissance reported had been converted to use as locomotives. All six "loco-trucks" were destroyed by 500-pound bombs dropped by a formation of A4 Skyhawk jets from the carrier Ranger, a spokesman said.

The detection of the "loco-trucks" raised speculation that the heavy U.S. bombing program may have made a deep dent in North Viet Nam's railroad equipment.

U.S. Navy pilot Philip V. Vampatella, lieutenant j.g. of Islip Terrace, N.Y., got mad over North Viet Nam Tuesday when cannon fire from a Communist MIG 17 swept past his Crusader jet's wingtips, so he turned around and shot it down. "I had never before actually had a man shooting at me," he told a Saigon news conference Thursday. (AP Wirephoto)

DeGaulle Feels Discontented With Bleakness

Frenchman Trying To Do Something About Cold War

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle, symbolizes the discontent of many with the world as it is and their yearnings to alter its bleak condition.

But it is doubtful he will find a solution.

He is sensitive to Europe's mood of frustration with 21 years of the cold war, and he shares it. He is restless enough and has character enough to try to do something about it.

In this spirit he has gone to Russia where he was gracious and the Russians received him warmly. But his trip so far has revealed nothing more than an attempt to conduct foreign policy by socializing.

No Settlements
This is hardly new and his foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, said before De Gaulle took off there would be no political settlements.

His trip at most is a try at ventilating old antagonisms and attitudes and raising the shade on some new possibilities of good will and cooperation. None of these changes seems close.

If in time they happen, provided they are not simply a restoration of the old-style free-wheeling and homicidal nations which brought on two world wars, De Gaulle will have made a contribution.

But his contribution will be only as one of the many agents of change loose now. He can nudge change but he can't compel it because France, no longer a No. 1 power, can't compel it.

New Day
In seeking to be the messenger of a new day in Europe, De Gaulle suffers from some handicaps which smell of the past. His intense nationalism is obsessed with restoring the ancient grandeur and prestige of France.

The result is confusion. Because of his nationalism he is under a compulsion to stand alone while he seeks a new harmony and cooperation. Thus in him nationalism butts heads with realism.

Like France, he is listened to, but he is not dominant and in trying to be he may yet produce some shattering results, not constructive as he wishes but the other way around. He has done a little of it already.

Liked by the restraints and requirements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — and by America's dominant role in it De Gaulle all but pulled France out of it, badly damaging it.

Not the Same
It can never be the same without France in its military structure.

Yet, without NATO and its umbrella of American protection, France could not stand 10 minutes against a surging Russia if its present rather placid mood turned suddenly aggressive.

Nevertheless, De Gaulle, while pledging loyalty to the West, wishes France free of NATO.

This is to have it both ways: To try to be free and independent while being totally dependent on others for the ultimate protection.

History may show he was a bit ahead of his time, that there were vision and value in his single-handed, even brutal, attempt as with NATO to make the West realize painfully that changing times needed new conditions.

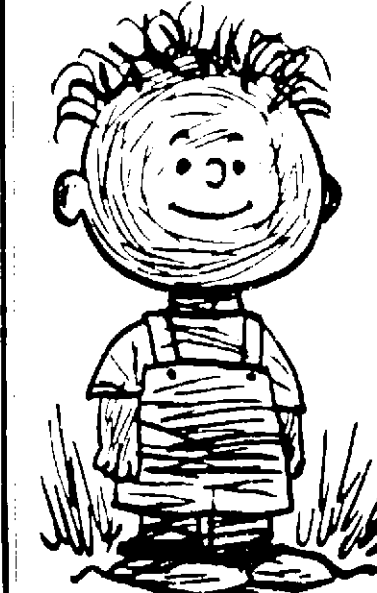

But as of now he gives the impression of a man trying to open a safe without being sure of the combination.

Warden List Is Extended

Action Gives New Life to Bid by Kenneth Beghin

MADISON (AP) — Carl Wettengel, director of the State Personnel Bureau, said Thursday he will extend for at least another 30 days the certified list of candidates for the post of chief warden of the State Conservation Department.

The action gave added life to the three-year bid by Kenneth Beghin for appointment to the job.

Wettengel said he would extend the time beyond the scheduled Sunday expiration date.

Wednesday, a Dane County Circuit Court refused to order Lester Voigt, Conservation Department director, to make an immediate appointment to the position that has been snarled in litigation and appeals since May, 1963.

Those on the bureau's list besides Beghin are Harold Hettrick and Stanley G. DeBoer, conservation department employees. Primary contestants for the job are Beghin and Walter Zelinski, who was removed as chief warden last October after Beghin won a State Supreme Court decision. Zelinski now seeks to have the certified list declared invalid, and his court action is pending.

Voigt has refused to recognize the list provided by the personnel bureau, and has on several occasions returned it.

Wettengel said the extension, which could be increased, will give Voigt another month to act on an appointment.

Iron Ore, Coal Grain Shipments At 9-Year High

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Record shipments of iron ore, coal and grain over the Great Lakes in May put shipment of these commodities so far this season at a nine-year high. Oliver T. Burnham, Lake Carriers' Association secretary, said Thursday May shipments amounted to 21,040,071 net tons, a six-year record.

It compared with 22,062,369 tons moved in May 1960 and 20,489,388 tons hauled a year ago. May ore shipments reached 10,348,041 gross tons, up from the 9,515,295 tons a year ago. Coal cargoes dropped to 6,683,413 net tons from 6,940,147 tons in 1965. The grain movement was 2,781,852 tons, down 76,659 tons from May last year.

The grand total of these bulk commodities transported to June 1 was 35,541,620 tons, the highest since 1957 when 36,304,205 tons were moved in the first five months of the year.

Dodd Presents His Witnesses

Martin and Zeiller promptly denied her charge.

Klein is the owner of a Chicago public relations firm and a registered agent for West German interests. The committee is investigating Dodd's relations with him, including an allegation that Dodd made the 1964 trip to West Germany to help Klein keep his clients satisfied.

Most of the testimony has dealt with whether Dodd's trip was made to help Klein hang onto his firm's clients there or, as Dodd maintains, to conduct an investigation for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. He claims he was to look into alleged Soviet terror tactics.

Mrs. Carpenter told the committee that after the senator's trip to Germany she heard two of the senator's aides, Martin and Zeiller, speculate that Klein must have paid Dodd.

Martin and Zeiller took the witness chair in the crowded hearing room moments later and swore that the testimony of the blonde 28-year-old divorcee was false. They testified no such conversation ever took place.

Before Mrs. Carpenter was excused as a witness, Sonnett questioned her about her marital affairs and her relationship with James P. Boyd Jr., Dodd's former administrative assistant.

Boyd earlier had testified that he and Mrs. Carpenter had removed thousands of documents from Dodd's files and turned them over to columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson, who wrote a series of articles based on the information. He said they felt this was the only way they could expose what they regarded as the senator's misconduct.

The State Mental Health Advisory Board used that section of the Constitution to ask the Attorney General Thursday to determine whether the state is meeting its constitutional obligation to educate mentally handicapped children.

In many areas of the state mentally retarded children are not admitted to classes for them, until age seven or eight, or such a final ruling is expected in time as determined by local August, McDermott said.

ent practice leads to budget and tax levies that are higher than actually needed. Annual sessions would enable closer appropriations and revenue estimates through the use of a one-year budget, he said.

State Sen. Martin Schreiber, D - Milwaukee and a candidate for lieutenant governor, observed recently that state government is becoming more and more complex.

"The individual legislator finds it all but impossible to become familiar with the technical details of the 1,800 bills that were under consideration in the 1965-1966 session," he said.

As a result, more time and effort is being demanded of the so-called "parttime" legislator who is paid $5,400 a year plus a $15 a day expense allowance when he attends a session.

Many lawmakers feel the prolonged and recurring sessions lugging at their purse strings. Some have said the amount of a proposed salary raise now being considered by an advisory committee will determine whether they run for re-election.

Raise Controversy
The work and time involved also explains in part why some legislators thought the $4,200 annual raise they voted themselves during the spring session was not outrageous.

Martin's proposed constitutional amendment to permit annual sessions still faces another obstacle in the 1967 Legislature, which must adopt the measure before the voters act on it. Both Huber and Alfonsi are optimistic it will pass both houses.

The exact form of annual sessions, if they are approved, has not been decided. The proposed constitutional language would be open-ended allowing the lawmakers to get their own limits.

Some have suggested a full-blown session every year with no time or subject restrictions. Others propose the second meeting of each year consider only budget matters.

Another alternative offered is a time limit on the session during even-numbered years, such as 30 days or 60 days.

Assemblyman David Obey, D-Wausau, said he would like a completely un-fettered annual session. Later, the practice might dictate any need for refinements.

Obey acknowledged that annual sessions would present some difficulties, but added, "I'll take potential problems rather than the present confusion any day."

Jailer Refuses Free Safe-Cracking Talent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chief Deputy Jailer Tom Burns turned his back on the free talent available recently when the safe refused to open in San Francisco jail.

A locksmith opened the safe after four hours.

Four or five safe-crackers were in residence behind bars at the time, Burns said, but they lacked special drills. "Anyway, I thought it might be illegal," he added.

Mental Health Board Questions State Obligations

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Constitution states "schools shall be free and without tuition to all children between the ages of 4 and 20 years."

The State Mental Health Advisory Board used that section of the Constitution to ask the Attorney General Thursday to determine whether the state is meeting its constitutional obligation to educate mentally handicapped children.

In many areas of the state mentally retarded children are not admitted to classes for them, until age seven or eight, or such a final ruling is expected in time as determined by local August, McDermott said.

Sweepstakes Reach Epidemic Proportions

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Instructions on successful contest slogan writing. Also fading is the traditional "proof of purchase" requirement that you send in box tops, labels, etc.

Check Numbers

In a full 95 per cent of today's sweepstakes, the participant already won $100 a month for needs only send in his "Lucky Life." "Win a dinner for two number" or perhaps check his at any restaurant anywhere in number against a list posted in the world. Win a swimming pool filled with soup — and a top of Salines.

This is a sampling of the sweepstake lures which recently have been crossing my desk in a volume indicating that sweepstakes and contests staged by U.S. corporations are now reaching epidemic proportions.

In 1966, alone, corporations will give away a record $100,000,000 in cash and other prizes. Says Arnold, advertising and promotion agencies have to use sweepstakes. "As an indication every ingenious come on" of the huge numbers of individuals involved there were an estimated more than 30 million win a slight edge for a entries in Pepsi Cola's recent $2 million "World Wide Shopping for your favor. And of course, sweepstakes, if the contest stipulates that you Way the craze? A key reason consult a list of "lucky numbers" that today's new contest posts in a store you'll promotions require that you probably at least take a look at while the traditional jingle or the product being promoted away in 25 words or less.

What Are Chances

This type of contest has gone. How honest are today's into a decline because it encourages "sweepstakes"? Do you really and semi-professional" can have a fair chance to win to followers many of whom particularly if you put your became perennial winners and number in the slot which says even resulted in a special school. "No I don't want to buy your which peddled mailorder in product but I still want a chance to win your speed day night. Born Free at 6:30 stakes?" and 9:30 Swingin' Summer, once at 8:10 Matinee Saturday at 1 p.m.

"We have no evidence of dishonesty in nationally-advised sweepstakes," says a Better Business Bureau spokesman. "Most of these promotions are run by big U.S. corporations and they go to great lengths to avoid any possible charges of rigging." Also notes Arnold, virtually all of the specialized outside judging agencies which select sweepstake winners check thoroughly on potential winners after their names have been drawn, to make sure there are no company employees or other insiders among them.
